2 SMUGGLING CASES EYED BY CONGRESS

Charges Against Two Representatives Stir Official Washington

CAN'T SQUELCH MATTER

Department of Justice Obligated to Act Against Present Policy

BY DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington—Members of congress are astir over the accusations made against two representatives charged with smuggling intoxicants into the United States. It brings the prohibition law closer to the official group than it ever has been. And it has forced members who are quoted publicly to say that the law must be enforced equally against officials and private citizens.

But it is an open secret that if the department of justice had been consulted in the first instance there would have been no tampering with congressional privileges. The department is not persecuting or prosecuting congressmen just now any more than it is using the Jones-Staker law against the individual citizen, not himself engaged in the liquor traffic from a commercial viewpoint.

The general impression has gone out that the government will arrest anyone caught carrying a flask on the hip. This is within the right of the government under the new law but it is not the policy. One reason is that the government considers it too expensive at the moment to engage in wholesale arrests and therefore it isn't fair to arrest a few and not all. But the main reason is that the government considers it far more important at the moment to use its funds and power to catch those who are part of the organized liquor traffic, the bootleggers and those higher up who control the trade.

WILL DOOR CHARGES

Therefore, the law isn't being enforced against private citizens who carry a few bottles for their personal use, it isn't likely to be applied against members of congress. But since United States Attorney Tuttle in New York has started something it is not discreet for the department here to squelch the proceedings. New York is a wet center and the eyes of the country now are on the two incidents in which congressmen are supposed to have participated. It is unlikely the prosecutions will be dropped, but it would not be surprising to see an argument made on the inviolability of congressional membership while traveling. Such privileges are given to foreign diplomats only at present.

ALLEN-A COMPANY ASKS

$3,000 FROM KENOSHA

Kenosha—(P)—The Allen-A company has filed a claim for $3,000 against the city council for damages the company suffered from a bomb explosion last October. The firm declares insufficient police protection was partly to blame.

The general strike committee of the brewery workers who quit work when the company wished to introduce a two-machine system, filed notice with the city council immediately that it would obtain an injunction restraining the city from paying the $3,000.

ROBBER AT BARABOO DIES OF HIS WOUNDS

Mauston—(P)—Nick Hartman, one of the bandits who last fall held up and robbed a filling station at Baraboo, after slugging and shooting the proprietor and were later shot and captured by a Juneau posse, died here Tuesday as a result of the wounds received when he was captured. His body is to be taken to Chicago. His companion is being held at Baraboo.

Tells About Slaying At Illini Home

Raider Who Shot Mrs. DeKing Says Gun Exploded When He Fell

Elgin, Ill.—(P)—Roy Smith, deputy sheriff, who last week shot and killed Mrs. Lillian DeKing during a liquor raid in Aurora and was shot in turn by Mrs. DeKing's 12-year-old son Tuesday told a corner's jury that the woman was aiming a pistol at him when his gun exploded accidentally as he stumbled while backing toward the door.

The corner's jury came here from Aurora to take Smith's testimony in a hospital where he is convalescing. After hearing his story, the jury did not anticipate trouble. He asked to Geneva where the formal request was opened. The corner conducted the questioning. George Carbury, Kane-co state's attorney, and DeKing's counsel agreeing not to intervene, and Charles Harley, observer for the attorney general stating he did not care to ask questions. Smith said he and two deputies accompanied two officers to the house where the slaying took place. He said "everything was all right and that Peter DeKing, Joseph brother, and a deputy were inside." He said the house was surrounded and the raiders did not anticipate trouble. He said he saw a man, pistol in hand, shouting he intended to shoot the first officer to enter.

Smith said he then realized he was the only officer in the house and decided it was best to knock out the armed man which he said he did with the butt of his pistol. As this man, identified as DeKing, fell, Smith said he heard a woman scream, although he had understood Mrs. DeKing was not in the house. The woman rushed toward him cursing and screaming, he declared, and snatched up a pistol dropped by her husband and leveled it at him. Her son, Gerald, he said was behind him at the time. The deputy said he was at the time. The deputy said he was backing toward the door and stumbled, and from then on things were not clear to him.

He said someone shot him through the leg and he thought the woman had fired until the boy ran from behind him with a pistol, shouting, "mama, I got him, I got him." Smith said he saw the gun was discharged from the hip about this time and he fell and remembered nothing more until he found himself in a hospital.

CHIEF WITNESSES

The principal witnesses were Roy Smith, the deputy sheriff who shot and killed Mrs. DeKing, and son; Eugene Boyd Fairchild, under-cover detective who signed the affidavit leading to the issuance of search warrant for the DeKing home, and Philip Johnson, who made the actual purchase of liquor leading to the raid.

Fairchild, who told of driving to Aurora with Johnson to buy liquor after he had failed to get it himself at a garage owned by George DeKing, said he saw Johnson a $5 bill and Johnson went toward the DeKing home.

He did not see Johnson until the latter appeared with the liquor and $3. He said they took a drink of the liquor which he described as "poor stuff," then drove to Aurora and turned the rest of the liquor over to Walter Miller, investigator for the state attorney.

"That's my story," I'll stick by it," said Fairchild. Under questioning, he said Johnson told him he had purchased the liquor from a woman, described as about 50 years old. He said he did not see Johnson go into the DeKing home, although he admitted in the affidavit he had said that he himself entered the home. He said he did not know Mrs. DeKing and when asked to point out her husband finally picked Stafford, the garage man, as DeKing. This was made a part of the record.

State Representative Frank McCarty asked Fairchild if he was in the habit of making out affidavits when someone else bought the liquor, and Fairchild replied in the negative, although he said that he had been made once before although he made no affidavit the first time.

LOUISIANA HOUSE CALM IN IMPEACHMENT PROBE

Baton Rouge, La.—(P)—In the calm of a normal session, the Louisiana House of Representatives got off to a slow start Tuesday on the impeachment investigation of Gov. Huey P. Long charged with 19 official offenses.

The report of the sub-committee on rules of procedure was formally presented, but a motion of adoption provoked an attack on the rules from Representative Allen J. Ellen, who declared there were laws governing impeachment procedure and special rules were not necessary.

GALE DAMAGE OF MILLIONS IN MIDWEST

Mississippi, Already Near Top of Levees, Is Swollen by New Waters

Chicago—(P)—Property damage mounting into the millions and a serious new food threat remained Tuesday to remind the midwest of the rain, wind and snow storm that swept over the region Sunday and Monday.

Heavy rains in the central and blizzards in the northern states had again swollen nearly all streams and the danger was considered acute as the tributaries brought this added burden to the Mississippi, which was already nearing the tops of its levees.

Patrolmen were called back to duty as the water rose rapidly Monday night. A stage of 19.5 feet was recorded on the Quincy, Ill., gauge and government forecasters predicted the water would go over the 20 feet mark by Tuesday night.

AT DANGER POINT

Much apprehension was apparent along the lowlands, where the residents had just completed a long siege with spring flood waters. The levees, weakened by the pressure of more than a week of the highest water in 25 years, were considered in bad shape to withstand another rise. The Fabius river was out of its banks and threatened drainage districts near Mark, Mo. The Lima lake district, north of Quincy, was in danger from high waters of Bear creek. Water covered the tracks of the Burlington railroad between Canton, Mo., and Keokuk, Iowa, but trains were still running early Tuesday.

High winds lashed the southern end of Lake Michigan into the worst storm in years.

Property damage in Chicago alone was estimated at $1,000,000. Sea walls crumbled all along the lake front here and the coast guard station at Evanston was threatened. Northwestern university students here helping coast guardsmen reinforce the walls with sand bags.

By The Associated Press

Wisconsin Tuesday surveyed conditions in the wake of Sunday's big storm and saw damage which is rapidly mounting into the millions; crippled and broken wires of communication, blocked roads and delayed trains.

For miles over the state, communication wires were down although linemen were working frantically to

MENINGITIS EPIDEMIC IN CHINA IS SERIOUS

Shanghai—(P)—The meningitis epidemic having reached serious proportions here, officials of steamship lines decided Tuesday not to accept steerage passengers from Shanghai bound for America.

As a further precaution, the trans-Pacific passenger lines refused to permit steerage passengers from Manila, Hongkong and south China to go ashore while ships are in Shanghai.

Accurate information of the number of cases was lacking, but it was known to be large. Both Chinese and foreign health officials said that meningitis serum was urgently needed, emergency supplies not having been received from Manila, Hongkong, Japan, Germany and the United States. Serum sufficient to treat 2,500 cases was ordered.

In the Shanghai area, authorities estimated, 1,000 cases being treated. Many deaths have occurred within a radius of 100 miles of Shanghai.

$30,000 IN DIAMONDS MISSING AFTER WRECK

Dixon, Ill.—(P)—Disappearance of $30,000 worth of commercial black diamonds in the wreck of the mail plane piloted by Paul J. Kanitz, south of Harmon, Ill., on March 22, was revealed Tuesday by Robert J. Politt of New York, insurance adjuster, and Walter J. Olson, post-office inspector.

The package containing the diamonds, which are used for drill points, is believed to have been destroyed by fire which consumed the plane following the crash. The ashes have been sent to New York for a scientific search.

AGED GAME WARDEN DIES AT TWO RIVERS

Two Rivers—(P)—Hans Hendrickson, 69, for 25 years a fish and game warden, died Monday night at his home here following an attack of heart disease. He was the second oldest game warden in point of service in Wisconsin.

100 Million Surplus In Sight For U.S. Treasury

Smoot Says Margin Is Not Sufficient to Warrant Move for Tax Cut

Washington—(P)—Gratified over the prospects of a $100,000,000 treasury surplus this year congressional leaders nevertheless were inclined Tuesday to smother suggestions for another tax reduction.

Chairman Smoot of the senate finance committee, declared the $100,000,000 margin was not sufficient to begin a new tax reduction measure. He declared that appropriations authorized by congress at the last session would almost consume this prospective surplus.

Collections this year, it was announced, already have reached $595,000,000, indications are that by the end of the fiscal year, June 30, the total will be the largest since 1921. And the official estimate of the probable treasury surplus has been raised from $26,000,000 to $100,000,000.

Furthermore, it was disclosed, individual income tax returns have increased to such an extent that, for the first time, they exceed corporation tax collections, which came up to expectations under the reduced rate of 12 per cent.

Meanwhile, the controversy over the federal reserve board to curb the use of credit in stock market operations has given little evidence of abatement.

CUT NATIONAL DEBT

Unexpectedly large receipts from the income tax payments coupled with a persistent policy of loan reduction brought the national debt on March 31, to the lowest point since the termination of the World War.

The net debt on that date was reported Tuesday by the treasury department at $16,988,711,272.08, compared with $17,272,000,000 on March 31, 1928.

WORLD SURPLUS IS PROBLEM ON FARMS

So Says Head of Agricultural College in North Dakota at Hearing

Washington—(P)—The farm surplus of the world rather than that of the United States is causing distress to the farmers of the country, J. L. Coulter, president of the state agricultural college of North Dakota, told the house agriculture committee Tuesday in testimony on the new farm bill.

Crops produced in other countries where hands and labor were cheap, he said, were driving American products from the markets and leaving the American farmer with a surplus on his hands.

He urged that the problem be dealt with by tariff revision to preserve the domestic market. Coulter favored creation of a farm board to aid the farmers in balancing production and demand, stabilization corporations also would be valuable, he said, but he disagreed with suggestions that they should be controlled by the government instead of by the farmers.

An alliance between American wheat growers and the Canadian wheat pools was suggested by J. W. Brinton of Lincoln, Neb., before the senate agriculture committee as a means of stabilizing the price of wheat.

He said 60 per cent of wheat of the world is grown in these two countries and that if they cooperated they would be able to control the price rather than have the world market do so.

SHANKS COUNSEL ACTS TO SAVE HIM FROM CHAIR

Springfield, Ill.—(P)—Counsel for David Shanks, Negro, confessed slayer of Miss Jennie Meta Constance, school teacher formerly of Cumberland and La Crosse, Wis., filed a motion with the supreme court Tuesday for a writ of error and supersedeas. The slayer is sentenced to the electric chair.

Miss Constance was killed in Evanston last summer while attending summer school at Northwestern university. A sanity hearing for Shanks in Chicago is set for April 5.

FORMER BANK EMPLOYE UNDER 4 INDICTMENTS

Milwaukee—(P)—Erwin F. Voelz, former employee of a Milwaukee bank, charged with embezzling more than $200,000 is under four indictments, it was revealed Tuesday when he was before Judge F. A. Geiger in federal court. His attorneys were given until Wednesday to study the indictments and have their client enter a plea. When the titles of indictments were read, the indictment of Charles Fox, former business manager, was revealed.

BETS HE CAN DRINK 10 GALLONS OF WINE, DIES OF ALCOHOLISM

Stockton, Calif.—(P)—Henry Van Steenberghe, of Harmony Grove, 15 miles from here, bet a friend he could drink ten gallons of wine at one sitting. He began the attempt last Saturday. When less than a glass full of the ten gallons was left Monday night, he toppled over and died. A physician said his death was caused by alcoholism. A widow and five children survive.

HEAVY VOTE IS RECORDED AT NOON

Almost as Many Turn Out at Polls as at Presidential Primary

Despite the sloppy condition of the streets, a heavy vote, comparing favorably with that cast last spring at a presidential primary, was being recorded in the city Tuesday, a survey of the polls shortly after noon indicated.

The count at that hour showed 1,673 votes as compared with 1,765 for last year, a difference of only 92. Opposition for alderman from every ward and for supervisor from almost every ward, in addition to the referendum, is believed responsible for the excellent turn-out.

The vote by precincts, compared with the election last spring, follows:

SCORES ARE MAROONED IN GREEN BAY REGION

Green Bay—(P)—Scores of dancers, motorists and in some instances entire families, who found themselves snowed in while attempting to make their way home over highways were still being kept at farmhouses or dance halls Monday morning. The possibility of transportation to a railroad station became more promising as roads began to be cut through.

Farmers in the vicinity of Suamico, near Pellegra's hall, were planning to make a way through the drifts to the paved road leading to Green Bay early Tuesday afternoon in order that the small child of a Chicago family stranded about a half-mile north of there might be rushed to a physician. Six or seven families were still marooned at farmhouses north of the hall at noon Tuesday.

Last Minute Bulletins

Chicago—(P)—A non-stop flight from Ireland to Chicago, starting April 15 by two Polish aviators in an amphibian Caproni plane, was announced Tuesday by Alderman Stanley Adamkiewicz who will sail for Milan, soon where arrangements will be completed.

Chicago—(P)—Without even as much as a fist fight, several thousands of Chicagoans had voted by noon Tuesday on Thompsonism in the city council. The balloting took place orderly and quietly, but County Judge Edmund K. Jarecki cautioned his election workers not to delay their vigil at the polls where the theft of ballot boxes and other frauds usually take place near closing time.

PREMIER WILL LAUD HERRICK AT SERVICES

Poincare to Deliver Oration—French Cruiser to Carry Body

Paris—(P)—The French government continued Tuesday its plans for imposing funeral honors for Myron T. Herrick, United States ambassador. Little was being left undone to pay tribute to the man who while he lived here was France's friend.

A number of details inseparable from the elaborate ceremonial involved remained unsettled Tuesday but the principal features of the obsequies were agreed upon. Meanwhile the body itself remained at the embassy where a throng of admirers, both distinguished and humble, passed for a last view.

The ceremony Thursday will open with the funeral oration pronounced by Premier Raymond Poincare himself. This will be the second time in little more than a fortnight he will have been called upon to officiate in such a capacity. A distinguished gathering at the embassy will hear his eulogy.

GUARD OF HONOR

After it is concluded the cortege will form outside with a guard of honor, to which the ambassador is entitled as holder of the rare distinction of the grand cross of the Legion of Honor. The guard will be followed by a considerable representation of other organizations. The cortege will proceed a short distance to the American Pro-Cathedral, where there will be a memorial service.

The body will then be placed on a special train and conveyed to the coast and taken aboard the new fast cruiser Tourville, which will depart immediately for New York. There, Poincare, Herrick, the ambassador of France, will wait it to accompany it to Cleveland for interment.

There was a never ending stream of visitors at the embassy, all signing the book and expressing their condolence with the embassy staff and Mrs. Poincare Herrick, the ambassador's daughter-in-law.

Letters and telegrams arrived from all over France by the hundreds.

HOOVER AGAINST WIDER SCOPE FOR SHERMAN LAW

Washington—(P)—President Hoover is of the opinion that liberalization of the Sherman law to permit interstate agreements for the curtailment of oil production would necessitate federal regulation of prices and to this he is opposed.

The question of government action to permit such agreements was raised at a recent meeting of the American Petroleum Institute, a delegation which is to discuss the subject with federal oil conservation board Wednesday.

As a member of the oil board, which was appointed by President Coolidge, Mr. Hoover has made an intensive study of the situation and is thoroughly conversant with the problems presented.

Through its investigation the board found that promiscuous and intensive drilling was the fundamental cause of the exhaustion of the natural oil supply. By regulating drilling much waste could be avoided, the board believed, and a maximum production be obtained from a given deposit.

A special committee investigated the possibilities of legislation and reported that there was no foundation for federal action. Regulation of drilling, it said, rested with the states. Moreover, it reported that agreements between oil operators for limiting production would be in violation of the Sherman law.

Former Ashland Man IS KILLED IN INDIANA

Milwaukee—(P)—Word was received here Tuesday that Percy Campbell, 22, formerly of Ashland, fell from the trestle of a bridge being erected over the St. Joseph river at South Bend, Ind., and was drowned. The accident occurred Tuesday morning.

DELAY HEARING OF I'M ALONE CAPTAIN

New Orleans, La.—(P)—A preliminary hearing for the captain and crew of the Canadian rum ship I'm Alone, charged with conspiracy to violate the prohibition law, was continued Tuesday for one week by request of government attorneys.

PEOPLES' PARTY MAN IS ELECTED MAYOR

Iron Mountain, (P)—Dr. Geron Frederickson, Peoples party candidate, was elected mayor of Iron Mountain over John Andrews, Jr., independent candidate, by a majority of 285 votes. It was announced here shortly after noon Tuesday when the ballots cast in Monday's election had been tabulated.

8 Killed By Heavy Storm In 13 States

Several Scores Injured and Much Property Damage Is Reported

New York—(P)—The death toll from a furious wind storm that swept across 13 states and part of Canada Monday mounted to eight today. Several score persons were hurt. There was much property damage.

The storm, which reached a velocity of 70 miles an hour at some places, originated in the southwest, tearing across parts of Arkansas, Missouri, Nebraska, Iowa, Illinois, Minnesota, Wisconsin and upper Michigan and then across Ohio into Pennsylvania, West Virginia, New York and New Jersey.

Buildings were unroofed, wires were blown down and trees uprooted. Both Lake Michigan and Lake Erie were swept by the storm and much property was damaged along the lake fronts. Waves as high as 35 feet dashed along the Illinois-Wisconsin shore on Lake Michigan.

At Buffalo three ships were torn from their moorings and the Lake Erie water level was six feet above normal. One man was killed in Buffalo by a falling tree. The wind blew down a hangar at the Buffalo airport, damaging planes.

In Patterson township near Beaver Falls, Pa., a 7-year-old girl was killed and 50 other children endangered when the wind blew off part of the roof of a school building. A 10-year-old girl lost her life in a similar happening at a school building at Newell, W. Va., and a year-old child was killed at Welch, W. Va., when a home was wrecked.

The storm cut a path four miles wide along the Delaware river in eastern Pennsylvania and New Jersey, causing one death.

Two persons were killed in Ohio. The storm was accompanied by sleet and rain in Canada. Damage estimated at $1,000,000 was done in Ontario and Quebec.

FIND NO EVIDENCE IN MORGAN AFFAIR

No One Saw Liquor in Baggage of Ohio Congressman, Officer Says

New York—(P)—United States Attorney Charles Tuttle, after investigating reports that Congressman William M. Morgan of Ohio, had brought four bottles of liquor into the country from Panama, announced Tuesday that no one had seen any liquor and that the Morgan baggage had been passed unopened.

When first reports were published that the congressman had acknowledged possession of four bottles of liquor found in one of his trunks, but had demanded and been granted free entry, he emphatically denied the whole story. He said he had never had a drink in his life.

Tuttle called seven customs men to his office, including the two inspectors who were reported to have seen the liquor, and after questioning them announced Tuesday that the whole matter resolved itself in to "talk between customs men and Mr. Morgan."

He said that not only had no liquor been seen but that none of the congressman's baggage had been opened. He said that this courtesy was extended on the congressman's assertion that he had been in Panama on official business and so was entitled to free entry.

FORMER ASHLAND MAN IS KILLED IN INDIANA

Milwaukee—(P)—Word was received here Tuesday that Percy Campbell, 22, formerly of Ashland, fell from the trestle of a bridge being erected over the St. Joseph river at South Bend, Ind., and was drowned. The accident occurred Tuesday morning.

Contradicting federal reports of a partial victory in Monday's battle, the rebels claimed a sweeping victory at Jimenez during which insurgents forced the Mexicans southward for a distance of 20 miles.

Along the west coast the rebels were reported in full retreat after a disastrous battle in which they were said to have lost 100 dead, 50 wounded and numerous prisoners.

For the first time since the outbreak of the revolt five weeks ago, the revolution appeared entering a decisive phase, the battle for Jimenez being the most extensive yet reported.

For 14 hours Monday the battle raged, and late in the afternoon federal forces ceased firing to draw lines for resumption of the attack at that time they claimed possession of Jimenez.

No definite estimate of the casualties was available, each side said that hundreds of the enemy had been killed.

Believe Rebel Aviator Dropped Two Bombs on U. S. Side by Mistake

MANY WINDOWS BROKEN

Air Raids Continue Against Mexican Area

Naco, Ariz.—(P)—The American town of Naco was bombed Tuesday apparently unintentionally, and Ferry Baker, 35, of Alliance, Ohio, was wounded when a Mexican rebel airplane dropped four missiles in an attack upon the federal stronghold of Naco, Sonora, on the Mexican side of the line.

Two of the four bombs fell on American soil. Many windows here were shattered. The other two bombs fell in Naco, Sonora.

The attack was a continuation of the raids started last Sunday by rebel aviators under General Fausto Topete. Thus far 19 bombs have been dropped in three days. Up to Tuesday the casualties on the American side were two killed and three or four wounded.

American infantrymen are stationed here with instructions to prevent it possible damage to the American side of the border.

Naco is held by about 1,200 federalists. Topete

Delinquent Tax Returns In County Total $103,832

LIST LARGEST IN HISTORY, RECORDS SHOW

Delinquent taxes returned to Miss Margaret Ziegenhagen, county treasurer, this year by town, city and village treasurers, totaled $103,832.61 or about $24,000 more than in 1928 when the total delinquent list was $81,984.23. It is the largest delinquent tax list ever returned to the county, Miss Ziegenhagen said.

However a good many of the delinquents appear at the courthouse every day to settle their taxes. In addition to paying their taxes, delinquents must pay a penalty of 2 per cent and interest of 1 per cent a month. Properly against which taxes have been returned as delinquent are to be sold after June 11 but Miss Ziegenhagen expects that many of the delinquents will have made settlement by that date.

Appleton, which returned $45,334.75 in delinquent taxes certificates, had the largest delinquent list. In 1928 Appleton returned only $30,022.26 in delinquent taxes or $15,312.49 less than this year. This increase is almost three-quarters of the total increase in the entire county delinquent list.

An increase of more than $1,000 was returned by the city of Kaukauna as compared with the return in 1928. This year the total was $9,419.75 while last year it was $8,109.15.

ONEIDA RETURNS $8,000.—The town of Oneida returned the third largest delinquent tax list this year, $8,072.20. This is an increase over last year when the delinquents totaled $7,613.11.

Twenty-one of 31 districts in the county showed increases in the total delinquent lists returns this year as compared with last year, Miss Ziegenhagen's records show. Following are the names of the districts which showed a reduction: Village of Black Creek, city of Seymour, village of Shiocton and the towns of Center, Cicero, Freedom, Hortonville, Maple Creek, Seymour and Vandenberg.

Total drainage taxes which were returned as delinquent this year were $10,021.99 as compared with $9,989.96 last year. Only two districts returned delinquent drainage tax certificates. They are Shiocton, $260.31 and Bovina-Black Creek, $9,765.38.

Last year Shiocton returned $231.19 delinquent and Bovina-Black Creek, $9,738.77.

Following is a list of the towns, cities and villages of the county with the delinquent taxes returned in 1928 and this year:

COMMITTEE WILL VISIT HIGH CLIFF

Representatives of Legislature Will View Proposed Park Site Thursday

The joint assembly and senate committee, appointed by the speaker of the state assembly to investigate the feasibility of High Cliff as a state park, will make a trip to the High Cliff region Thursday, according to Assemblyman Oscar J. Schmieg, Appleton, a member of the committee. Senator Anton M. Miller of Little Chute also is a member of the committee.

According to Mr. Schmieg, the committee will make a complete inspection of the site which is being proposed for a park. Owners of the property in consideration will be interviewed and an attempt will be made to arrive at some definite estimate of the probable cost of the property if the bill is passed. The advantages of the site also will be considered by the committee which will prepare a report on its findings for the legislature.

William Mauthe, chairman of the state conservation board, will be with the committee when it makes its investigation, according to Mr. Schmieg, who is author of the bill which would create the district as a park.

Other members of the committee are Senator Merritt S. White and Assemblyman Charles Barnard and J. D. Grandeen.

APPEAL BOARD WILL HEAR THREE CASES

Three appeals from the rulings of John N. Welland, building inspector, will be heard by the board of appeals at a meeting at 7:30 Thursday evening, April 11, at the city hall.

GOOD PROGRESS IS MADE IN OPENING COUNTY HIGHWAYS

Eight Trucks and Two Tractors to Have All Roads Open Wednesday

Although temporarily handicapped in its fight to open the roads after the unprecedented storm of Sunday because practically all of the snow removal equipment had been dismantled, the highway department was making good progress in its work Tuesday.

All important state trunk highways had been opened by Tuesday morning and the fleet of eight trucks and two of which were hired by Frank Appleton, acting highway commissioner, from the Wisconsin Michigan Power company, were working on important county trunk highways.

Highway 41, the most important artery in the county, was opened to traffic to the county line early Monday afternoon and the county trucks continued on that highway in Brown-co until it met the trucks from that county. This was done, Mr. Appleton said, so that traffic to Green Bay could get through as soon as possible.

Highways 10 and 26 were open their full length, Highway 47 to Black Creek, Highway 55 to Seymour and Highway 76 to Shiocton. Also County Trunks J and S had been opened Tuesday morning.

Tuesday morning there were 6 trucks and two tractors at work while the fleet of trucks was to be increased by two more Tuesday afternoon. The two rented trucks worked all Monday night and Tuesday morning and the drivers were off to rest until noon Tuesday.

ROADS TOO SOFT
Considerable trouble is being experienced on some county roads, Mr. Appleton said, because the surface is soft and the heavy snow removal equipment becomes mired when it tries to open them.

ALL OPEN WEDNESDAY
Mr. Appleton predicted, however, that every road in the county on which the machinery could operate safely, would be open by Wednesday morning. The other roads, he pointed out, would be opened as soon as it was possible to do so.

For the time being the road patrolmen, who were called out a week ago when most of the snow had disappeared, have been taken off the job and will remain off until enough of the snow disappears so that they can again work effectively.

When the storm broke early Sunday morning the highway officials little thought it would be of such intensity as to tie up traffic. By Sunday night however the storm had assumed troublesome proportions and Mr. Appleton telephoned his men to be ready to get on the road as soon as the storm stopped.

Only one 14-ton and the new 14-ton tractor had not been dismantled and Mr. Appleton gave orders that the first work to be attempted should be that of opening roads to the gravel pits in the county where the trucks, which had been engaged in hauling gravel and crushed rock to repair jobs were stationed. According to Mr. Appleton there were three trucks at Freedom, two at Black Creek and one at Seymour. As soon as these could be reached they were taken to the county barns, plows were fitted, and they started out to open the roads.

Mr. Appleton was snowbound on his farm in the town of Oneida Monday morning so he started by horseback for Freedom and reached there several hours later.

DIRECTS WORK
One of the trucks had reached Freedom and it took Mr. Appleton to the highway headquarters here so that he could better direct the work. When it was learned that the heavy tractors were having trouble on unpaved roads Mr. Appleton ordered that they be used only on paved roads and because the work was not progressing entirely satisfactorily he got in touch with officials of the power company and rented two more trucks.

C. OF C. HAS COPIES OF NEW ROAD MAP

Appleton chamber of commerce has received 50 copies of a Wisconsin road map from a Milwaukee newspaper and is giving them out to members of the chamber on request, according to Kenneth Corbett, secretary. The maps show highways throughout the state indicating canyons, parks and the type of various roads.

ORGANIZE ANOTHER SCOUT TROOP HERE

E. C. Erickson and R. D. McGee Are Named Scout Masters

Organization of a boy scout troop at the First Presbyterian church was started Monday night at a meeting of men of the church at the home of the Rev. R. A. Garrison. Harold Heller, Howard Palmer and F. F. Martin were appointed members of the troop committee and two other members will be appointed later. E. C. Erickson was named scout master and R. D. McGee, assistant scoutmaster.

Eight or ten boys in the church will be selected to form the nucleus of the troop and will be trained as leaders, taking advantage of the training course getting underway Wednesday. When they have completed their training the other boys will be taken into the organization with the first group as patrol leaders and assistants.

This New Silent KELVINATOR brings new advantages in electric refrigeration

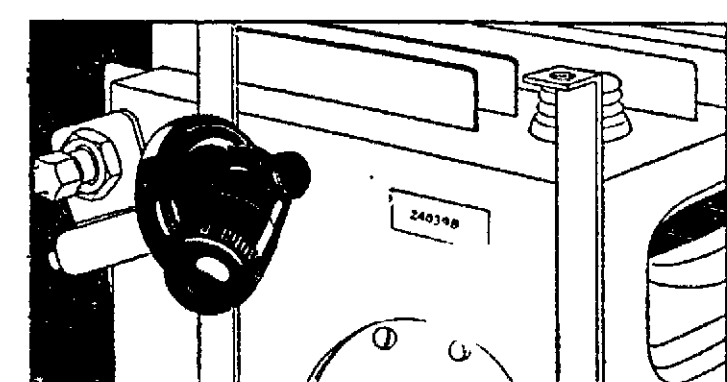

FIFTEEN years ago the first Kelvinator was sold. That same Kelvinator is still giving superb, unfaltering service.

The New Silent Kelvinator is an equally outstanding achievement. It is so truly silent that standing close to it you can scarcely believe that it is running. And it has in addition refinements made possible only by the longest manufacturing experience in the industry.

The New Kelvinator brings you everything in electric refrigeration. Strength and sturdiness to last many years. Economy of operation. Beauty of line. True silence. Ample power. Generous ice-making facilities with the added convenience of a flexible rubber tray that ejects the ice cubes in a twinkling—without melting and waste of ice.

Come in soon and let us prove to you the superiority of the New Silent Kelvinator by an actual demonstration.

You may own a Kelvinator now, with Kelvinator's attractive ReDisCo monthly budget plan. No need to wait to enjoy Kelvinator benefits.

JOHNS SAYS STATE NEEDS ALL BOARDS AND COMMISSIONS

Former Governor's Private Secretary Says System Can't Be Abolished

Outlining the state governmental system, J. L. Johns, Appleton attorney and former private secretary to Ex-governor Fred R. Zimmerman, told members of the Neenah Business Men's club Monday night at Neenah that he did not believe it would be either economical or wise to abolish the committees and commissions now existing.

Mr. Johns said that there would not be fewer boards or commissions no matter who is governor.

"Our state is growing rapidly," he said, "and there is use for all boards we have today. They all serve a purpose—the purpose for which they were created—and will not be wiped out by legislation until something better is created to take their place."

During Mr. Johns' term as private secretary to former Governor Zimmerman he had opportunity to examine closely and "from the inside" the workings of the state governmental system. He explained the duties of some of the more important committees, commissions and gave figures showing that they served the people by overseeing industries and businesses which produced millions of dollars in products each year.

Mr. Johns took opportunity to praise the present highway commission system and to predict that, if the bill now before the legislature proposing a three-man commission is adopted the efficiency of the department will be partially destroyed.

"We have a very competent highway commission at the present time," he said, "and it will be unfortunate if we see a change at this time. The commission now is out of politics and if a new commission is created it will bring the body back into politics again and as a result the efficiency of the department cannot help but be partially destroyed."

There were 26 general administrative boards or departments; nine educational boards or departments; 10 examining boards; 10 membership societies; 25 boards, commissions, committees, etc., which have no employees or expenditures; and seven miscellaneous boards in the state governmental system in 1925, Mr. Johns pointed out.

However all these groups, for the period ending June 30, 1928, cost the state only $6,149,680.49 or exactly 1.95 per cent of the total state tax. In the year ending June 30, 1927, the total state tax was $154,971,435 while the government system cost but $6,507,343.53.

Mr. Johns said that one of the first things the taxpayer must learn when he begins to think about tax reduction is that local taxes consume a large part of the total state tax. In the fiscal year ending June 30, 1927, Mr. Johns pointed out for illustration, the counties received 18.8 per cent schools, 28.3 per cent, local, 34.7 per cent and the state the balance of 18.2 per cent.

The prediction made by Mr. Johns that despite all the agitation to have the present income tax law changed, it would result in nothing whatever. He said the increased revenues from this tax were needed by the state and that the legislature would not make a change.

HE OFFERS SUGGESTION

Mr. Johns made the following suggestions which he feels will help the people to educate themselves to a reduction of taxes:

"First, we should immediately stop spending for anything in the way of public improvements except what is absolutely necessary."

"Second, bonds issued serially should be retired during the lifetime of the generation which incurs the obligation."

"Third, we should organize taxpayers' association in the state so that the citizens may learn from authoritative sources what the costs of improvements will be and what the interest charges will figure before sums are authorized and not after it is incurred."

"Fourth there must be a more equitable distribution of taxes and perhaps this should be on an income basis as this is the most equitable way of taxing people."

Mr. Johns said that one of the greatest troubles in attempting to reduce taxes was to keep the legislature from appropriating more money than the state will receive to cover appropriations. The speaker pointed out that in 1927 the legislature appropriated $5,453,000 more than there were receipts to cover.

Chef For 50 Years Finds He's Tired Of Food Now

A chef since the days when a mess of beans and hardtack was good fare for a sailor, it's no small wonder that John Heins, head chef at the Conway hotel, is tired of food. Food holds no temptation to him, and as a rule he eats very little, though he spends the day roasting stuffed young chicken, frying juicy steaks, and broiling fillet of pike for others.

Outmeal for breakfast, perhaps a regular dinner, and toast and tea for supper—and, occasionally a bit of honey—make up the days' three menus for this connoisseur of food, and he eats them amid the aroma of roast beef, boiling coffee and oxtail soup, with one eye on the browning sweet potatoes and his ears constantly on the alert for "Hamburger o' two!" "Two eggs over!" And—a comforting thought for new brides—he doesn't like his own cooking.

Mr. Heins, who is now 74 years old, has been cooking for about 50 years—ever since he was 15 years old. He was born in Frieberg, Germany. His father was a sea captain, and perhaps that was the reason for John's first job—cooking on a boat to the West Indies. Cooking at that time meant a mess of peas one day, beans the next, and cornmeal, the third, with hardtack to brighten things up a bit. There were no canned goods at that time, and a boat's cargo of food included nothing more than sacks and sacks of peas and beans, salt pork, coffee, and hardtack.

On its way back from the West Indies the boat stopped in England, and was forced to lay up there until the Franco-Prussian war was ended, for fear of colliding with the French warships in the English channel. At the end of the war in 1871 he returned to Hamburg, where his mother lived, and shortly after that brought his mother and stepfather to America.

CAME TO MILWAUKEE

He came directly to Milwaukee, and his first job in America was on a Great Lakes vessel, a passenger boat navigating from Detroit to Milwaukee. When he was 22 years old he became chef at Dwyer hall, Oconomowoc, and after 10 years there he became head chef at the Kirby house, Mason and E. Water-st, Milwaukee, an old structure which will be torn down this coming summer.

His next position was in Appleton at the Waverly house, which was torn down when the present Elk club was built. When the Waverly house was razed, Mr. Heins became head chef at Hotel Ritter, now the Hotel Appleton, and in 1918 he became head chef at the Conway.

The change in the style of food came during the World War, according to Mr. Heins. Before the war orders for spring chicken or steaks for breakfast were placed with the utmost casualness, but when the prices went sky high, breakfast orders stayed within the range of bacon and eggs, toast, and cereals. All other meals changed accordingly, both in variety and in quantity.

A comparison of old and new menus is interesting. A Christmas dinner menu from the Kirby House in 1882 reads as follows: oysters; New York Quaints, raw; soup; Cream tomato; Fish: boiled fresh codfish; oyster sauce; boiled chicken with cream sauce; beef tongue with olive sauce, or corned beef with spinach; roast; sirloin of beef with brown peapies; stuffed tame duck with apricot jelly, or stuffed turkey with cranberry sauce; cold fishes: shrimp salad, corned chicken, pickled oysters; ham, pressed chicken or tongue; entrees: fillet of beef with mushrooms; wild duck braised with wine sauce; spanish fritters, with ghee au rum; fillet of rabbit larded with claret sauce, or baked pork and beans; relishes: horse radish, French mustard, new factory cheese, tomato catsup, celery, or E. W. catsup; vegetables: mashed potatoes, boiled potatoes, cabbage, green peas, string beans, steamed tomatoes or sweet corn; pastry: mince or lemon cream pie, English plum pudding with brandy sauce; lemon ice cream, fruit or cocoanut cake; fruit and dessert: Florida oranges, apples, English walnuts, almonds, pecan nuts, filberts, tea or "French coffee."

When a woman cooks for 50 years straight, she doesn't even get pitted. But when a man broils steaks and makes soups for 50 years, he becomes little short of famous. John Heins, 74, now head chef at the Conway hotel, has been cooking since he was 15 years old—and is still at it.

ed tomatoes or sweet corn; pastry: mince or lemon cream pie, English plum pudding with brandy sauce; lemon ice cream, fruit or cocoanut cake; fruit and dessert: Florida oranges, apples, English walnuts, almonds, pecan nuts, filberts, tea or "French coffee."

1909 MENUS CHANGED

A Sunday dinner menu at Hotel Ritter in January, 1909, included oysters, celery, mock turtle, radishes, salted almonds, olives, California salmon with sauce Normande, potatoes Mitraillesse, roast turkey with chestnut dressing and cranberry jelly, browned sweet potatoes, sugar corn, string beans, roast domestic duck with apple sauce, mashed potatoes and green peas, champagne wine, calves' sweetbreads, au Bourc Noir, fritters soufflee au Salabon, punch au kirsh, roast leg of mountain sheep, larded with current jelly, lettuce with French dressing, galatin of chicken, apple jelly. Desserts were apple or mince pie, fruit pudding with brandy sauce, vanilla ice cream, assorted cake, fruits, mixed nuts, layer raisins, wafers, brick and American cheese, coffee, apple cider and cigars.

A modern menu is comparatively simple when stacked up against pre-war layouts; pineapple cocktail, chicken soup d'Oreans, olives, celery, broiled fillet of pike with sauce tartar, braised sweetbreads Jardinier, stuffed young chicken with cranberry jelly, roast prime ribs of beef au Jus, boiled au gratin au O'Frien potatoes or browned sweet potatoes, early June peas, combination salad, 1000 island dressing, cherry or apple pie, strawberry parfait with cake, coffee, milk or fresh dairy buttermilk.

His "day off" means a lot more to Mr. Heins than to the person in the average line of work, for after being other people celebrate and enjoy themselves for months and months, day in and day out, a day of his own is a big treat, and it is only on these days that he doesn't have to look with envious eyes at other merry-makers. On these special days the chef goes fishing—the thing he enjoys most—or sits around the house and smokes when the weather isn't conducive to fishing.

HORNER NAMED IN SUIT FOR DAMAGES

Ex-housekeeper Asks $5,000 for Alleged Improper Proposals

Charging William Horner, formerly of Appleton, made indecent proposals to her while she was working as his housekeeper, Mrs. Clara Eggert filed suit in municipal court at Green Bay Saturday asking $5,000 damages.

Mrs. Eggert claims she worked as Horner's housekeeper from June 1, 1928, to Feb. 15, 1929. During that interval, she alleges, he made improper proposals and one time laid hands on her. His actions, she claims, caused her much humiliation and fear for the safety of herself and her 16-year-old daughter, who lived with her in Horner's home.

No answer has been filed yet to the suit and it is not known when it will be tried.

Horner has been fined both in Green Bay and in Appleton for practicing medicine without a license. He formerly operated a "hospital" on Willow-st. in Green Bay. Since that venture he has engaged in the sale of remedies.

SOCIETY

NEENAH SPORTSMEN
GO TO MEETING IN OSHKOSH TOMORROW

Local Society Votes to Buy
70 Pheasants for Delivery
in June

Neenah—A delegation of 100 members of Twin City Sportsman club will go to Oshkosh Wednesday evening to attend a mass meeting of the Fish and Game Protective association in the Oshkosh city hall. Cars will leave the Neenah city hall at 7 o'clock. Speakers of prominence will be present to discuss proposed legislation regarding hunting and fishing.

The Twin City club executive board met Monday evening at the city hall and decided to purchase 70 pheasants to be shipped here in June. It was also decided to appropriate $50 for prizes to the fisherman who will catch the largest pike, pickerel or perch during the season. The prizes to be awarded at a meeting to be held at the close of the fishing season. The fishermen at the city hall will be the judges and will weigh and measure all fish brought in and entered in competition. Arrangements also were made for the next meeting which will be held in the next two weeks, the meeting to be followed by a card party.

At the meeting of the club to be held at some near future date at Menasha also was discussed and left with the committee to set a date. The directors went on record as favoring the fishing license law providing all money derived be used for conservation purposes within the state. The club is not in favor of changing the date of opening of the hunting season from Sept. 16 to Oct. 1 but is in favor of the proposed closed fishing season from March 1 to May 1. Resolutions voicing the club's stand on these questions will be forwarded to state legislators from this locality. Assemblyman Nels Larson was present at the meeting and promised to do his share in protecting the club's wishes.

150 MAROONED IN DANCE HALL BY
SNOW FILLED ROADS

Neenah—As a result of Saturday and Sunday's snow storm, 150 young people were marooned at the Sunset garden, a dance hall on highway 41 between Neenah and Oshkosh, until after 3 o'clock Monday afternoon. The young people went to the place Sunday and had remained inside all evening. When ready to leave after the last dance, it was found that all roads were blocked with snow from two to six feet deep and it was not until the county show plow had made a path Monday that the dancers could return to their homes.

Traffic on the Oshkosh-Neenah road was resumed late Monday afternoon. The large number of cars which had been stalled in the snow banks were started on their way after 5 o'clock.

The Neenah street department got on the job by noon Monday and by night had most streets open.

Neenah—Delegates to the state Eagle convention to be held at Sheboygan will be elected Thursday evening at the meeting of the Neenah aerie. All arrangements for attending this convention accompanied by the aero drum corps will be made at this meeting. The local chapter will endeavor to take part in the parade and make an effort to secure the prize given to the aerie having the largest number of members in the parade.

NEENAH
BOWLING

Neenah—Knights of Columbus bowling league rolled its weekly matches Monday night at Neenah and Menasha aeries. At the Neenah aeries Balboas won three games from Shamrocks; San Pedros won three games from Pioneers and Pintas won the odd game from Navigators. Edward Sonnenberg rolled high single game with a 225 score.

EAGLE BOWLING LEAGUE

Neenah—The Eagles Bowling league will roll the final games of its schedule at Menasha Tuesday evening. Liberty will line up against Eagle club; Equality and O. E. 1063 will be opponents and Kluge and Truth will be the other two teams to clash.

Mrs. J. W. Hewitt and son, John, and Charles Neubauer leave Wednesday for Madison where they will spend a few days at the state basketball tournament.

YOUTH SENTENCED TO REFORMATORY

Admits Burglarizing Five
Neenah and Menasha
Business Places

Neenah—Henry Brooks, 20, whose home is at Ladysmith but who has been at Neenah for the last few months, was sentenced Monday in Municipal court, Oshkosh, to serve from one to two years at the state reformatory at Green Bay. Brooks pleaded guilty a few days ago to a charge of burglary in the night time. The judge took the case under advisement and gave his decision Monday. In a written confession, the young man admitted he had burglarized five Neenah and Menasha places of business. The particular offense to which he pleaded guilty was the burglarizing of the Durham Lumber company office on the night of Nov. 30, 1928.

SOCIETY

Neenah—Pearl Filz and Raymond Hopfensperger, both of Appleton, were married at 11 o'clock Monday morning by Justice George Harness. The young couple was attended by Raymond Rebeau and Loraine Filz.

A group of American Legion members plans to go to Ripon Friday evening to attend the schafkopf tournament to be given by the Legion of that city.

Neenah—T. C. B. Clark circle, Ladies of the G. A. R., will meet at the Armory Tuesday evening at 7:30. Officers and auditing committee will meet at 7:00.

Miss Florence Hinterthuer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Hinterthuer and Alfred H. Evans of Cincinnati, O., were married at 7:30 Monday evening at the Hinterthuer home on Lake-ave. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. D. C. Jones, pastor of First Presbyterian church in the presence of the immediate family. The couple was attended by Mr. and Mrs. Howard Hinterthuer. A dinner followed the ceremony after which Mr. and Mrs. Evans left on a two weeks' trip south. They will return to Neenah to live. Mr. Evans is foreman of a tree surgery crew and has been employed in this vicinity for the last three years.

The annual meeting of the Presbyterian Sunday school will meet Friday evening at the church dining room where at 6:30 a supper will be served. A business meeting at which officers will be elected, reports given and a social hour, will follow the supper.

The apprentice degree was given a candidate Monday evening at the weekly meeting of Kane Lodge Masons. Next Monday evening special work will be conducted.

NATIONAL GUARD GETS ANNUAL INSPECTION

Neenah—The annual inspection of Co. I, Wisconsin National Guard, will be held on the evening of April 18 at S. A. Cook armory. Capt. D. C. Faith, regular army inspector stationed at Baraboo, will be the inspecting officer. On the evening of April 15 following the weekly drill, the company will be entertained at a supper in honor of the large numbers which have joined the outfit since the first of the year. Paul Gerhardt, brother of Capt. Carl Gerhardt, was the last to join, entering the ranks Monday evening at the weekly drill. Capt. Gerhardt is going to be made by the government ruling in regard to having all enlisted men at the weekly drills or discharge them from the company, basing his decision on the fact that there are many who join the company and then do not attend the drills. A roundup Monday evening brought a dozen or more men to the armory who had no intentions of attending the drill.

SEEN FOR TREASURY

pared to $17,492,000 ($37.55 one year ago). The peak point of war debts was $25,478,592.113.25, the figure for August, 1919.

The month end statement of the treasury disclosed that total receipts from the income tax for the first of the four quarterly payments of 1928 were $601,363,804.65, justifying all of the recently built up hopes of an addition of about $250,000,000 to the government's receipts from this source alone in 1928. Last year's March income tax payments stopped at $515,669,121 and the increase this year of more than $85,000,000 is expected to persist in large part through the other three income tax payment periods, though a large number of such taxpayers settle their account with the government in a single payment during March.

There was also notable this month an increase in practically all other sources of government revenues, customs receipts for the month having reached the total of $35,000,000, or about $7,000,000 more than in March last year while the miscellaneous internal revenue items brought in more than $50,000,000, and slightly more than those during the same period last year.

The indications now satisfy treasury officials that estimates of receipts for the current fiscal year, ending with July 1, will be exceeded in nearly all branches by the realization, and that the national debt, which gets the advantage of all government surplus, will be reduced still further by July 1.

MODERN WOODMEN TO CONVENE IN OSHKOSH

AN INTERNATIONAL LOSS

America now and then has outstanding diplomatists. The World war developed a number of importance, and before that we have had from time to time as able representatives in foreign capitals as other nations constantly have, principally in London, Berlin and Tokio. The death of Myron T. Herrick, described as America's most popular envoy to France since Benjamin Franklin, removes a really great diplomat.

Mr. Herrick's chief political experience before he went to Paris, first when Taft was president and second under Harding, was as governor of Ohio. He had been offered foreign posts but had refused them, together with the treasury portfolio at Washington. He was, therefore, untrained in diplomacy, but he did a great work in France, which helped more than Americans realize to bridge over difficulties between that country and the United States growing out of the war and to ameliorate debt settlement hostility toward us.

The chief business of an ambassador is to strengthen good will and understanding between the country he represents and the nation to which he is accredited. It is a heavy responsibility and one requiring great poise, tact, judgment and substantial qualities. Diplomatic service is generally regarded as one of the weakest phases of our government, for the simple reason that we do not train men for this profession and that many of the appointments are merely political awards. Ambassadors like Herrick, Walter Hines Page, Mr. Morrow and others that might be mentioned, are conspicuous exceptions to the rule of political reward. Mr. Herrick's service takes rank with the best that America has had in the foreign field. His death is more than a national loss; it is international.

SAFE CRITICISM

Taking his farewell of England, Ambassador Houghton said some sensible things about mutual criticism of the two great English-speaking nations. To be sure, there are many persons in each country who dislike the other, and who do not hesitate to say so. But what of it? "The world has become astonishingly safe for loose talk," he remarks. "It is one of the luxuries of security."

Honest differences of opinion may be taken for granted. So may blather-skites. It would be strange if, among all the free millions of Great Britain and America, there were not a rather steady fire of distrust and criticism on both sides. But Britons and Americans of sound judgment do not take such comment very seriously. They know that most of the people of each country respect and admire the other, and realize the value of working together.

COST OF GAMBLING

The average of "call loan" money in New York during the month of March was over 8 per cent, more than twice as much as it was two years ago in a normal month. It was, too, about twice as much as the dividends accruing from the average stock dealt in, at current prices. During one hectic week the loan rate for stock gambling money averaged 15 per cent. This was on more than $5,000,000,000. Wall street statisticians estimated the daily interest charges paid by the stock operators at $2,281,150.

That is a good deal more than the sum Germany is paying her allied creditors for war reparations, and complaining that she can no longer afford to pay. Americans, however, seem able to afford anything they want. And just now they want, more than anything else, to gamble.

FIREWORKS ABOLISHED

All types of fireworks were abolished in Michigan when Gov. Green signed a bill forbidding the sale or use of fireworks containing combustible or explosive powders. This, to our mind, is a piece of progressive legislation that even so progressive a state as Wisconsin might take pride in. The toll of life and limb taken by fireworks throughout the country is a national reproach. It is of far greater concern than the patriotic spirit fireworks are supposed to promote. In fact, the indiscriminate use of explosives by individuals has come to lose all significance of independence observance. Rising generations do not know what it is about. It is merely an occasion to make noise and merry, serving no good purpose, but causing much disturbance and annoyance and invariably serious accidents.

The whole procedure is without rhyme or reason and in its larger aspect is purely a commercial enterprise. Other states will undoubtedly follow Michigan's example, for the time surely cannot be far away when all will unite in putting an end to this foolish and costly custom. Reservations may be made for municipal or other celebrations conducted under strict police regulation. The time has long since passed when it is either seemly or patriotic to go into hysterics in the commemoration of Independence day. The right appreciation of American freedom can be shown in more meaningful ways and in the observance of a safe and sane Fourth of July.

A NEW SPECULATIVE POWER

There is a new factor in the investment game which helps to explain some market gyrations which otherwise would be inexplicable. This is the institution known as "investment trust," using its stockholders' money to operate in the investment market. Many of these companies have been organized in the past year. Recently, news accounts indicate, such trusts have been "selling out at the top of the market at handsome profits and lending their money at call." Then when the market fell, they have called in their loans and used the money to buy stocks at bargain prices.

This is legitimate. The point is that it shows a new and powerful influence at work, whose effect in any given situation may be hard to calculate. It complicates the investment game, already very complicated. Some critics see in it potential peril. The New York Evening Post says: "Several times in recent months economists have pointed out that investment trusts were building up a terrific financial power which would be able to swing stock markets: It is generally believed that yesterday's experience (a tremendous collapse and rebound of stock prices) was the first taste of just how much power the investment trusts have."

OWNING A HOME

Ownership of a home is a highly desirable thing. Countless thousands of Americans have felt that they could not begin to feel really contented until they were living in a place of their own.

In planning on a home of your own, however, it might be well to pay a little heed to a bit of advice just issued by the National Lumber Manufacturers' Association. Emphasizing the importance of using good material in building a house, the association points out that contentment is hard to attain in a house where the roof leaks, floors creak, plaster crumbles and cracks on walls and ceiling, windows stick and refuse to open and doors fit so poorly that there are always draughts of cold air in the living quarters.

Those are the things one gets in a shoddily constructed house. When you plan a home, make sure that the materials used are of the best. Trying to save money in that matter is false economy.

The body of the plant Welwitschia, which grows in Southwest Africa, resembles an enormous radish. It is sometimes 12 to 15 feet in diameter. Two long leaves trail from the body onto the ground. They endure for the life of the plant, which is sometimes for 100 years.

At a depth of 50 or 60 feet under ground, the temperature remains constant throughout the year and is about the same as the average annual air temperature for the region in question. Below this level the temperature increases.

POST-TONIC
The Remedy is Worse Than the Malady

With the snowstorm raising the deuce with telegraph wires Monday, the Associated Press came through with a story about the rebels pursuing "gleeing federal troops." Or maybe that just the way a revolution looks to those who are in it. Don't see anything to be particularly joyful about—but maybe the feds drank it. —Rudolph of the Dayou.

When the March lion and April Fool shake paws, the Chicago weatherman who said that "Easter paraders of the middle-west may don their new spring finery without fear," and "the forecast is for fair skies and moderate temperature," probably hunts for accommodations with the groundling. This isn't just a dirty dig—the man should hunt for protection! I hope he plays the stock market. —Harold the Seer.

No matter how the referendum vote is decided today, either the wets or dries will blame the poor condition of roads, which kept the farmer from the polls. Watch for official statements from the Anti-Saloon league, or the Association Against Prohibition, as the case may be. —Arlene Wearie.

Saturday there was a story under the headline: "County Roads are in Good Condition, Says Highway Head." All of which doesn't mean they weren't—on Saturday. —Galahad Jiltme.

SAFE AT HOME
Mrs. Gordon (to husband who is "Listening in" on Sabbath evening):

Tammias: "Laugh woman! The minister has just announced a collection, an' here I am safe at home!"

A boy said the other day that he had rather have his finger hurt than his feelings, because he couldn't tie a rag around his feelings.

"What makes you think Bob won't be out of the hospital for a long time? Did you see his doctor?"
"No, I saw his nurse."

First Wife: "How long had you known your husband before you were married?"
Second Ditto: "I didn't know him at all. I only thought I did."

Today's Anniversary

THE FIRST U. S. MINT
Today is the anniversary of the creation by Congress of the first United States mint.

This act, passed April 2, 1792, followed closely the suggestions which had been made by Alexander Hamilton. His plan was to utilize both gold and silver as monetary standards. He recommended that the ratio between the two be 1 to 15—a proportion based on the bullion values of the time. He favored coinage of $10 and $1 gold pieces; $1 and 10-cent silver pieces, and 1 cent and 1/2 cent coppers.

When the mint act was passed, however, no provision was made for a gold dollar. Because of this omission, silver coinage advocates later insisted that the original unit of value was the silver dollar. It is usually held now that the word "unit," as used in the mint act, applies to numbers and not to value.

Incidentally, the phrase "In God We Trust" did not appear on U. S. coins until 1866. Then, at the suggestion of a former governor of Pennsylvania, James Pollock, this familiar motto was adopted by Congress.

Personal Health Talks

BY WILLIAM BRADY, M. D.
Noted Physician and Author
Dr. Brady will answer all signed letters pertaining to health. Writer's names are never printed. Only inquiries of general interest will be answered by mail if written in ink and a stamped, self-addressed envelope is enclosed. Requests for diagnosis or treatment of individual cases cannot be considered. Address Dr. William Brady, in care of this paper.

THE FAIRY TALE OF SETTLING DOWN

Not a few of the confidential inquiries I try to answer daily by private letter have to do with the question of marriage. There is no limit imposed on our readers as to the question they shall ask, but there is a very arbitrary limit I impose upon myself in answering questions. For instance, I am glad to give general advice to young married persons, but I shall send such advice only to the Mrs. in the piece upon her own request, and even then I shall decide by my own arbitrary rules whether the particular Mrs. shall have my advice. So far as that goes, there is but one other general rule I ask readers or correspondents to remember when writing to me for any information or advice pertaining to sex, and that is, I no longer offer any such information or advice to girls. This does not mean that I shall not answer individual questions; but only that I have no general sex hygiene instruction for girls. Formerly I did send to girls over 15 years of age a general letter of instruction and advice about sex, but it seemed to me that parents were not so heartily in sympathy with this practice as I feel parents should be with any such service. So we cancelled the letter to girls. But we still have one to boys of 15 or over, who ask for a bit of friendly or fatherly advice of information about sex matters.

I want every reader to know that he or she may always feel free to write to me about anything of this nature, and no matter whether I will or can answer the correspondent's query or request or not, it is strictly confidential, so far as I am concerned.

I refuse to answer any question if it is worded in a vague or impersonal way. I don't care to give out any information that may have a morbid or depressing effect. For instance, I have some information and advice of a general character on the subject of gonorrhea, but I assure you I shall send no such information in response to a request for a treatise or leaflet or pamphlet on the subject. No more should any good doctor deliver a private lecture to an impatient stranger who dropped casually into the consulting room and asked, "Hey, what do you know about such and such disease?" In other words, correspondents must be themselves when seeking my counsel.

There is a line in many of these letters, particularly from young women contemplating matrimony, that brings a bit of humor into the atmosphere yet it is pathetic enough. The villain in the piece, it seems, has been a rather "wild" one, has "sowed his wild oats" and all that sort of lokum. Now, however, he is ready to "settle down," the unfortunate heroine thinks. Still she is naturally just a little anxious.

In the next place, any woman who would tie herself by marriage to a fast one who protests he is going to reform is a reckless gambler—or her guardian is. There's the time and place for the health certificate, and from a good reliable doctor. Demand it before the engagement is made.

A BYSTANDER IN WASHINGTON

BY HERBERT C. PLUMMER
Washington—The freedom and informality that has marked the life of Mrs. Herbert Hoover was never more aptly shown than in her announcement that she did not desire the services of a secret service man when she goes in public alone.

The question of how Mrs. Hoover will adapt herself to the formal restrictions of the life of a lady of the white house has caused quite a bit of discussion among her friends. It now appears that for her these restrictions will largely disappear, and that under her touch took on the home of presidents will take on a new intimacy.

Mrs. Warren G. Harding was the first mistress of the white house to be accompanied by a secret service man when she appeared in public. Mrs. Coolidge continued the practice for the six years she was first lady.

To Mrs. Coolidge, the fact that she was followed everywhere she went by a secret service man, struck her as bordering on the absurd, but she nevertheless put up with it. There are numerous reports of excitement in poking fun at her escort. Her naturalness and good sportsmanship were always in evidence.

WORRIED GUARD

This was manifested on the occasion of her visit to an art exhibition in Washington shortly before she left the white house.

At one point in the inspection Mrs. Coolidge engaged in conversation with one of the artists. She found that they had mutual tastes, ideas and friends, and she stayed and stayed and stayed, much to the anxiety of her secret service attendant, who knew she had an engagement elsewhere toward which he felt they should be wending their way. At any

THIS HAS HAPPENED
On Monday morning RUTH LESTER, secretary, finds the body of her employer, HARRY BORDEN, sprawled beneath the airshaft window of his private office.

McMANN, detective sergeant, questions the following suspects: MRS. BORDEN, Borden's estranged wife and mother of his two children; RITA DUBOIS, night club dancer, with whom Borden was infatuated; and JACK HAWYARD, Ruth's fiancé, whose office is across the narrow airshaft from Borden's.

Jack's guilt seems emphasized by McMANN's discovery that Jack's pistol is missing from his desk; by Jack's admission that he returned to the seventh floor Saturday afternoon and by the testimony of MICKY MORAN and OTTO PFLEGER, elevator boys. BILL COWAN, Jack's friend, unwillingly admits having heard Jack threaten Borden's life Saturday morning.

McMANN questions BENNY SMITH, Borden's office boy; ASHE, his manservant; MIN- LIE, seventh floor scrubwoman and CLEO GILMAN, Borden's discarded mistress. MARTHA MANNING, mother of Borden's illegitimate son, is questioned. She says she last saw Borden Friday night in his office after his bodyguard, JAKE BAILEY, had left him and that her incriminating fingerprints were made then.

Martha says she did not call Saturday afternoon but telephoned Borden. McMANN pointblank accuses her of the murder and she challenges him to bring forward anyone who saw her in the building Saturday. Benny Smith bursts in upon them crying, "I've come to give myself up. I shot Mr. Borden."

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY
CHAPTER XLII

Ruth Lester was miserably ashamed later to remember that her first emotion upon hearing Benny Smith say he had shot Borden was one of relief. Jack Hayward was saved! But that emotion was almost instantly submerged in pity. And she was glad later to remember that she was conscious of no horrified shrink- ing as she ran to put her arms about the unsteady swaying body who had just confessed to murder.

"Here! Let me help!" McMANN gruffly commanded the girl and with as much ease as if he were lifting a baby the giant detective lifted him to the big, overstuffed leather chair from which the murdered man had manipulated his ruinous schemes and which for two days had seated the detective in charge of the investigation into his murder as a valuable point from which to heckle, harass, bully and confound suspects.

When the boy was lying back weakly in the big chair, McMANN whirled one of the straight-backed visitors' chairs to the desk and commanded Ruth Lester's services as a stenographer, to take down the confession. Her eyes were now so blinded with tears that she could hardly find her notebook and pen- cils—pencils upon which Benny him- self had put such a fine brave edge just last Saturday.

"Ready, Miss Lester? ... All right, Benny. Tell us all about it now," the detective commanded, almost gently. A glass of cold water from the tap in the outer office had been fetched by the detective himself and stood beside Benny's right hand.

"Well, sir," Benny began, after a strange, wistful look at Ruth Lester, who waited with poised pencil. "I lied yesterday when I said I didn't come back. I did come back, but nobody didn't see me, 'cause I walked up."

"Why did you walk up, Benny?" McMANN interrupted.

"'Cause I was sore at Mr. Borden. 'n I—I wanted to have it out with him," Benny answered, his adoles- cent voice going suddenly soprano on the last word.

"What were you sore about?" "Cause he—he bawled me out!" Benny cried, rolling his head from side to side, against the brown leather back of the chair.

"Isn't it true that you were more sore at him because he'd 'rot fresh' with Miss Lester Saturday morn- ing?" the detective suggested.

"You keep Ruth's name outa this!" Benny protested shrilly. "I tell you—I was sore at Mr. Borden 'cause he was always pickin' on me. 'n Saturday he talked to me like a dog, jist 'cause I wanted to borrow Ruth's pistol for target practice."

"Then you were also lying when you said the pistol was not in Miss Lester's desk when you returned the first time — at half-past one?" McMANN asked.

"Naw—it wasn't there. 'N say, I didn't come back up the second time to kill him—"

"But you walked up six flights of stairs so you would not be seen entering the building?" McMANN pointed out grimly.

"Listen, Benny, now that you're confessing, make clean breast of everything. Your actions prove you premeditated murder."

"No, I didn't!" Benny denied, his head rolling wildly against the chair back.

"Well—go on," McMANN directed resignedly.

"I come back, like I said and open- ed the door with my key," Benny began rapidly and was again inter- rupted by McMANN.

"At just what time?"

"I—Benny looked pitifully con- fused. "I—don't know—exactly. 'Bout two o'clock, I reckon—"

"Then—" McMANN said parenthe- tically and triumphantly to Ruth, "my theory that Rita Dubois robbed the boy is correct." Then, remem- bering the mysterious telephone call, a fragment of which Bill Cowan has said he overheard when he had called Jack Hayward's number at 2305 and was plugged in on a busy line and Rita's corroborating story of Bor- den's line being busy from 2:05 to 2:25, the detective asked: "Have you any way of fixing the exact time of your second return, Benny?"

The boy looked at the detective suspiciously, even fearfully. Ruth thought—though what could he fear now, after confessing? "Naw, I don't know. I tell you, but it was about two o'clock. 'At's all I know."

I unlocked the door and came in and Mr. Borden was settin' at his desk. 'n I—I come right in here, 'n we— we quarreled. "HART about?" the detective in- terrupted sharply.

"Aw—jist about him pickin' on me, 'n—everything! 'N he picked up a—his fevered eyes roved over the desk and lighted upon the glass ink well, empty now, since McMANN had used its contents with which to take Martha Manning's fingerprints —"that there ink well and started to throw it, at me, 'n I grabbed Ruth's gun—"

"Wait! Just where was this gun?" McMANN cut in.

"Layin' on the desk," Benny an- swered. "Right—right here," and he laid his hand in the center of the big green blotter. "The big stiff tried to beat me to it—'n I thought he was coin' to shoot me—"

"After hitting you with the ink well?" McMANN asked mildly.

"He—he put the ink well down," Benny amended desperately. "'N I—I pulled the trigger, 'thout know- in' what I was doin'." 'n—'n the gun when off—'n 'at's all," he concluded, seizing the glass for a long draught of the cold water.

"—you shot Borden while he sat at his desk?" McMANN said slowly. "That right?"

"Yeah, 'at's right!" Benny retort- ed defiantly.

"Then how do you account for the fact that his body was found away over there under the airshaft win- dow?" McMANN demanded.

"I—I forgot that," Benny con- fessed. "But—say, don't you go and try to make me say I didn't kill him—'cause I did! I—I did it in self-defense," he added, obviously a little proud of his use of a legal phrase. "After I shot him, he got up and walked over there and fell down—'at's how I account for it!"

The detective extracted an official- looking, typed document from his pocket. As he unfolded it, Ruth caught a glimpse of the wording of the printed letterhead: "Office of the Chief Medical Examiner, Depart- ment of Police—" McMANN studied the detailed report in silence, then folded it slowly and returned it to his pocket.

"Now, Benny, you know it can't make any difference in the long run whether you shot Borden while he was standing at that window. Come, now—just where was Borden when you shot him?"

"Settin' at his desk!" Benny re- peated stubbornly and began to cry, like a small boy and not at all like the 17-year-old young man-about- town that he fancied himself to be.

"And Benny?" McMANN's voice was very gentle now—"how many times did you shoot Borden? How many bullets were fired?"

"Just one! I—I sorta come to when I seen what I'd done, 'n I dropped the gun 'n beat it!"

Just one bullet! Ruth repeated to herself. And two bullets had been fired on Saturday, one imbedding it- self in Borden's chest and the other scarring a brick beside Jack Hay- ward's office window!

"So you dropped the gun, eh, Ben- ny?" McMANN asked gently. "Odd we didn't find it—"

"I—I picked it up again 'n stuck it in my overcoat pocket, 'n then I beat it down the stairs," Benny cor- rected himself feverishly, shrilly.

"I—gosh, I was scared! I—I wrap- ped the gun in a newspaper what I found on the stairs—I mean in one of them big sacks in the ball, what the cleaning women use to dump wastebaskets in—'n I—I chucked the gun in a—'n trash can on the sidewalk—"

"Where?" McMANN interrupted.

"I—I don't remember. Aw, gee, Mister, what does all them things matter now? Ain't I told you I done it?" the boy pleaded, wiping his eyes on the sleeve of his coat.

"Benny, after you'd—shot Borden, did you go around to Mr. Hayward's office for any reason whatever?" Ruth interrupted with a question of her own.

The boy stared at her, frankly puzzled. "Naw—why should I?"

"I thought so! Oh, Benny! Why are you doing all this? For my sake, Benny?" the girl cried, her voice shaking. Jumping up from her chair at the desk, she aban- doned her notebook and pencil and ran to the boy. "I know you're just making it all up, Benny darling! Why, why?"

"He—he—'at detective—" Benny sobbed—"told me yesterday I'd bet- ter come clean, or you—'you'd be arrested for murder!"

"Oh!" Ruth cried, her blue eyes blazing scorn at the embarrassed detective. Then, to the boy, soothingly: "Dear Benny, I told you yes- terday I was in no danger—"

"But after he'd sent you for Min- nie, he said you was, 'n jist didn't know it, 'n all last night 'n this morn' I studied how I could get you out of it, 'cause I'm jist a kid 'n they wouldn't lictrocute me!"

The boy broke off, sobbing heart- brokenly.

The door opened. "Mrs. Smith's here, sir—"

But Benny's mother waited for no permission. A small woman, her sharp-featured face framed in frizzy waved light-brown hair, pushed past Detective Birdwell and ran to the sobbing boy.

"Benny Smith, if you wasn't sick, I'd spank you right here in front of these folks!" she scolded the boy sharply, but Ruth knew that sharpness covered acute maternal anxiety. "I mighta known you'd pull some stunt like this, minute my back was turned!"

Then she whirled upon Detective Sergeant McMANN. "Are you the detective, mister? ... Well, I hope you're satisfied! You and your third-degree have run my boy's fever up till it's something awful! I didn't get a wink of sleep last night, listening to this poor child rave about Kevin! Miss Lester out of jail! The doctor and my girl- friend, Mrs. Thompson, who helped me set up with him and hold him in bed, can tell you how he took on—'ravin' in fever he was—about confessin' so this Lester girl wouldn't have to go to jail—"

"Please, please, Mrs. Smith," Mr. Mann at last succeeded in stopping the torrent of words. "I'm very sorry indeed if anything I said to Benny yesterday gave him the impression that I was about to arrest Miss Lester. Now, I think we'd better call an ambulance and have this boy taken to the hospital. I'm afraid he's a pretty sick young ster."

After Benny, who had lapsed into a fever stupor, had been removed on a city hospital ambulance stretcher, the whole proceeding frantically recorded by newspaper cameras outside the Borden suite, a wet-eyed girl faced a flushed, penitent detective across the dead man's desk.

"Pretty rotten, I know," McMANN admitted defensively, dropping his eyes to the sheet of notes he was shuffling between his thick fingers, "but if the police didn't use old-fashioned methods occasionally, we wouldn't solve half the crimes we do. Don't like 'em myself, but—"

He passed and shrugged. "Leaves as pretty much where we were before Benny b'rs. in on us, doesn't it? If you'll pardon my language, Miss Lester, this is a hell of a case! Of course I know the kid was lying; before he'd been 'confessing' five minutes! ... Well, better go to lunch, child. It's after one — by George! It's half-past!"

Ruth rose, her notebook with its stenographic report of Benny's chivalrous lies held against her breast, tenderly. She would trans- scribe every word of them, keep the record always. "And—may Mr. Hayward go with me?"

With Benny's confession worth- less, the investigation is back where it started. Who killed Harry Bor- den?

SKUNK INNOCENT CAUSE OF RECESS AT RURAL SCHOOL

Shawano — (AP) — School's out sooner than anticipated by the school board or teacher, in Lesser school No. 2, Shawano-co. It is out because the children played with a kitty-a pretty striped kitty.

It has been known all winter that there was a skunk under the school house, but those skunks were tame until one of the boys conceived the idea that if he would disturb the skunks, spring vacation would come early.

Result—Lesser No. 2 dismissed school for two days, and all the boys had a very nice time.

BOY SCOUTS RENDER AID IN ALABAMA FLOOD AREAS

Boy scouts in Alabama are doing much to aid in the rescue work and the care of refugees in the flood-de- vastated regions, according to word received by M. G. Clark, valley scout executive from Dr. James E. West, chief scout executive at New York. Boy scouts of Elba and Gene- va, Ala., have been mobilized into emergency units, he stated.

The actual rescue of people strand- ed on house-tops and upper floors of their homes by the floods and the collecting of food and clothing for the destitute, is the sort of work in which scouts are participating, ac- cording to Dr. West.

ROOSEVELT TOSSERS WIN HI-Y CONTEST

Howard Bowlby Leads Scor- ing by Sinking 21 of 25 Tosses

The Roosevelt Junior high school free throw team won first place in the finals of the contest conducted by the Hi-Y club of the Appleton high school at the Y. M. C. A. Satur- day afternoon. Howard Bowlby won highest honors by sinking 21 of 25 tosses. Wilson and St. Joseph schools tied for second place.

The Roosevelt aggregation made 70 points while the Wilson and St. Joseph teams each made 53 points. The McKinley team made 41 points. Emmett Horrell was high scorer for the Wilson team with 15 rings out of 25, while Carl Feuerstein led for the St. Joseph team with 16 ringers. Fred Last won hi-y honors on the McKinley aggregation by sinking 12 out of 25 tosses.

Harvey Kranhold was chairman in charge of the event. Officials were: Michael Gochnauer, Robert Kunitz, Kenneth Downer, Carl Wei- tengel, Roy Marston, Robert Mort- mer, and James Schroeder.

A silver loving cup given by Na- than Spector is to be awarded to the Roosevelt team.

Shining-eyed and fresh for the hours that count

What man is pleased at the sight of a tired-out wife ... too borne-down with household duties to try to dress, too weary to look her best for his homecoming?

The women men adore are shining-eyed and fresh, eager for the hours that count.

More and more women today are finding a way to keep young, ten, twenty, even thirty years longer than their mothers.

The great strides of engineering and electrical science have developed marvelous labor-saving devices to relieve women of drudgery. Modern medical science is outwit- ting middle age by revolutionary discoveries in diet and care of the body.

But it is advertising that has aroused women to a realiz- ation of what these new household helps can do. It is advertising that has brought a knowledge of beauty aids and their use. It is advertising that has created a desire for those products which aid women to lead healthier, happier, longer lives.

Always read the advertisements. Keep up with the ever-on- ward sweep of progress. Do not let yourself be left behind.

Light And Air Needed In Kitchen

BY SISTER MARY
NEA Service Writer

Every woman who buys and handles food should realize the importance of sanitary food protection and the danger of health risks through food contamination. She may not be able to personally supervise all the operations in her household before the food reaches the table but she can insist on certain methods of doing things as well as specific precautions regarding foods which will protect her family against those diseases which are known to be transmitted through the careless handling of food and utensils used in its preparation. It seems to be an accepted procedure these days that any person suffering from a cold shall isolate himself from his fellow workers, but too little attention is paid to this measure in the home kitchen. Of course it's often impossible for the woman who does her own work and has "just a cold" to keep out of the kitchen, but if she will take the precaution of covering her nose and mouth with several thicknesses of cheesecloth, mask-fashion, while she's baking and cooking, she will do much to protect her family. The silver and dishes used by any member of a family who had a cold should be covered with boiling water and allowed to stand five minutes before washing with the rest of the dishes. This is particularly true of the service which comes in contact with the person's mouth.

A well-ventilated kitchen with a sunny exposure sometime during the day is essential. Dark corners and little "jogs" are ideal dust-catchers and hard to keep clean. A stream of sunlight and fresh air are necessary in the kitchen as much as in any other room in the house. Food prepared in a dark dusty kitchen can't be at its best.

The refrigerator in which food is stored must of course receive careful and frequent cleaning. Milk, cream and butter usually have a special place provided for them in many refrigerators, but they should be covered in any event. Left-over foods should be cooled as rapidly as possible before putting into the ice-box.

Dishes and glassware should be washed in sudsy water as hot as the dishwasher can stand and rinsed in scalding water. Glassware will stand very hot water if it is placed flat in a pan and hot water poured into the pan but not on the glass until the glass is covered. An excellent way to rinse the silver is put it from washing into a colander placed in a large pan. Pour boiling water over silver. Lift colander from pan and polish on a clean towel. The silver will dry as soon as left from the water but will look blurry if it isn't wiped.

All fruits and vegetables that are to be served raw should be thoroughly washed through many clean waters. The ideal way to wash leaf vegetables is under running water with the leaf held at a sharp angle.

Meat should be removed at once from the wrapping paper when it comes from the market and immediately placed in the ice-box. Keep in mind that chopped meat does not keep well, so hamburger steak and fresh sausage should be used as soon as purchased.

Eggs should be washed when purchased if there is any trace of dirt on the shell. Egg shells are porous and should be clean.

BUTTERFLY FISH INSPIRE COLORS FOR MODISTES

San Francisco (P)—Gorgeous butterfly fish that provide inspiration to modistes are among the oddities of the Steinhart aquarium here. "Nature never makes mistakes in combination of colors or in proportions," explained Ernest Arnold, designer of women's gowns in giving credit to the marvelously beautiful colors of the Hawaiian and south Pacific specimens in the aquarium for the ideas for "some of my best creations."

"These fish have fins like sheer chiffon or gauze," he said. "As they move gracefully through the water, with fine undulating lines, I am reminded of esthetic dancers. Their action is adaptable perfectly for women's wraps, for stage costumes and for evening gowns. The cubistic designs are suggestive of beautiful shawls for the theater or ball."

THE TINYMITES

By Hal Cochran

READ THE STORY. THEN COLOR THE PICTURE

ONCE more the Tynmites were alone. Said Clowdy, in a grumpy tone, "Just think! With both the coal men gone, we don't know where we are. There's not a single soul in sight. I surely hope that we're all right. This must be miles from where we were, 'cause we have traveled far."

"As I recall, not long ago the four of us were down below the ground, inside a little mine, and since we left that place, we've traveled down a long, long hill. We kept on going fast until we reached the spot that we're on now. Oh, what a useless chase."

"Don't be so silly," Scanty said. "Why stay right here? Let's move ahead and look around the country. We may find a town nearby. I'm just just as hungry as can be, and food would look real good to me." "Don't mention food," cried Clowdy, "cause it only makes me sigh."

And, as they talked they walked along, through none of them

felt very strong. "Course Clowdy was right. He was a very grumpy sort. 'My feet are getting tired,' said he. 'And, very frankly, I can't see why we don't stop a little while and rest. This is no sport.'"

Just then they heard a buzzing sound. The Tynmites stopped and looked around. "It came from the air," cried one. "Can anybody see just what is flying 'round up there?' They all looked right up in the air. Then Clowdy shouted, 'There's a man. He's in a tub. Oh, gee!'

And sure enough, upon the breeze a tub was floating 'round with ease. It had some great big funny wings. It ripped from left to right. The man inside stood up and cried, 'I see you Tynmites. Don't hide, 'cause I'll be down to join you soon. I'm quite a funny sight.'

The Tynmites see a Goolygo in the next story.

But Cherry's vanity was not quite so great as her love for her husband. She drooped again, and Faith had to bend her head to catch the forlorn whisper: "I wonder when Nils will come to take me home."

"Just why did you leave him, if you hardly wait for him to come for you?" Faith asked, not unkindly.

"Don't be ridiculous!" Cherry flashed. "What else could I do, after what happened? After he laughed at me, in front of another man? Of course I'd much rather had been another man, than another woman," she acknowledged, as if trying to be very fair. "But—can't you see, Faith, darling? If I'd tamely submitted to his laughing at me he'd have been absolutely impossible."

"The truth of the matter is that you adore being mastered, and you'd despise Nils if you could wind him around your little finger, as you've been able to do with every other man that was in love with you."

"If I just knew he was terribly in love with me!" Cherry smiled, acknowledging the correctness of Faith's deduction by ignoring it. "He won me so easily, didn't have to lift a finger! Why, I practically flung myself into his arms. I was so afraid he wouldn't ask me to marry him. Don't you see that's what I simply have to prove to myself now that he can't live without me?"

"But what if you proved that he could?" Faith suggested cruelly.

"Oh!" Cherry covered her face with her hands. "Don't you know I'm already scared half to death? You don't have to rub it in! Oh, I wish I'd never laid eyes on Alan Beardsley!"

"I think it's time you went to bed, to cry yourself to sleep," suggested Faith.

"Another thing that made me furious," Cherry went on ignoring Faith's advice, "was Nils' inviting Crystal to come out to the farm to recuperate. Rabble about about fresh air, fresh eggs, new milk and what-not, in the most disgusting way. I thought he was going to kiss her any minute!"

Faith laughed, and flushed, too. "Then Nils isn't a bit original. I'm sure every man in the room felt exactly the same way about her tonight, and you could hardly blame them."

"What's happened to her anyway? Losing twenty-five pounds and getting a stunning new bob aren't enough to account for it?" Cherry complained. "Heaven knows I never thought I'd live to see the day I'd be jealous of Crystal Hathaway! Even Dick Talbot tried to date her up, and if Bob remembered that she was his cousin, he gave a swell imitation of forgetting it!"

"Do you want me to cry myself to sleep, too?" Faith asked lightly, but the flush deepened.

"And George Pruitt wanting to paint her portrait, and Harry Blaine looking as if he'd welcome six lions and a tiger to protect her from!" Cherry went on fiercely. "I'm warning you, Faith—Crystal's turned into the kind of a girl that every man just aches to protect. The most dangerous kind in the world. Well, I'll go to bed, but—oh, Faith, what'll I do if Nils doesn't come after me first thing in the morning?"

PRESIDENT OF WOMEN'S CLUBS RECEIVING GIFTS

BY ALLENE SUMNER

If you invite Sam Brown and his wife over for an evening of bridge and, getting yucky about 11 p. m. with Sam and the little woman, an showing no intentions of departure, you would hardly be excused for just saying, "Well, nighty night, folks," and running away.

But there's where the President of the United States and his lady have the edge on you. It's quite a feat for these First Two to wave a gracious farewell to their guests as they, to the strains of something or other, take the White House elevator upstairs to bed.

Well, they need some compensations.

Taxicab chauffeurs are so scarce in Paris that the big companies have sent agents to northern Africa to recruit Arabs.

THE COSTUME blouse becomes very interesting, pressing an important spring fashion. This semi-tailored model is of rose crepe with self lacing and silk tassels.

EATING DRIED FRUITS FOR THE SAKE OF HEALTH

BY SISTER MARY
NEA Service Writer

Just at this season of the year there seems to be a scarcity of fresh fruits. Apples have lost their flavor and grape fruit and oranges are on the decline.

But the fruit habit must be kept up, so now is the time to take advantage of the dried fruits until the fresh fruits again become abundant.

Research workers tell us that dried prunes and figs vie with citrus fruits in healthful properties, offering an excellent supply of iron and calcium. Dates furnish iron and lime and their sugar is easily digested.

During the drying process of these fruits their water content has of course been destroyed. This is replaced by extensive soaking in water.

All dried fruits should be washed very thoroughly before using. A complete scrubbing between the hands and washing through several waters is most essential.

FIG BLANC-MANGE

Two cups milk, 1/2 cup Irish Moss, 1/2 cup sugar, 1/2 teaspoon salt, 1/2 cup stewed chopped figs, 1 tablespoon lemon juice, 1/2 teaspoon vanilla.

Soak moss 15 minutes in cold water to cover. Drain, pick over rinsed. Add to milk scalded in double boiler and cook in double boiler for 20 minutes. Add salt and strain. Add sugar, figs, lemon juice and vanilla and turn into individual molds. Chill for several hours. Unmold and serve with sugar and cream.

After the fruit is thoroughly cleaned it should be allowed to soak in lukewarm water over night. The fruit is cooked in the same water to which its mineral salts. It should be simmered gently just below the boiling point until tender but not mushy or broken.

If sugar is demanded it should be added just before the fruit is tender. Keep in mind the prunes, figs and dates are rich in a natural concentrated supply of sugar.

Figs are known and used for their iron content and perhaps are more conveniently used in breads and cakes than the other varieties of dried fruits, although dates and prunes are delicious chopped and added to any sandwich bread.

Stewed dried apricots have an appetizing tang that makes them particularly acceptable for a breakfast fruit.

They are excellent when stuffed with cream cheese and nuts in a salad, too.

It's encouraging for those persons who do like their cereals and breads made from refined grains and white flour to know that if dried fruits such as prunes, raisins, figs and dates are used in abundance with leafy vegetables it is not so necessary to use cereals and breads made from the entire grains.

LOVE BOWS TO STATE AFFAIRS FOR PRINCE

BY ALLENE SUMNER

So, instead of Greta Garbo, who is what any woman would date on looking like, Prince Sigurd, 22-year-old son of Sweden's Crown Prince, is to marry plump and healthy Princess Juliana, daughter of also plump and healthy and wholesome Queen Wilhelmina of Holland.

At least it is said that the official announcement of the engagement will be made from the Dutch court most any day. The Swedish court, "he said, was recently thrown into panic at word back home of the prince's obvious admiration of the exotic orchid of the films, Greta in person.

The prince was forbidden to dance with Greta on shipboard where they met, his retinue having wireless the Swedish palace for instructions as to how to cope with this crisis.

So here again, in real life, is the story of tragedy. Love must bow to affairs of state, and the young prince must marry the young princess, though his heart would fly from the nose glasses and staidness of "la jeune fille serieuse" to the charms of "la jeune fille joyeuse" of the screen.

Prince Carol of all the Rumanians didn't do so. He gave up his throne for the lady of his heart. Many have condemned him, but perhaps many have applauded. And yet, whether preserving the traditions of a monarchy by sacrifice of self is really important or not, or whether the traditions are not worth the sacrifice of even one individual, the fact remains that the human race is so constituted that it applauds the strength of self-sacrifice whether in a necessary cause or not, and gives the plaudits of the Sigurds rather than the Carols. It is appreciation of human strength, no matter how wisely or illy applied.

SUMMER HATS FOR SHADE ARE ENORMOUS SIZE

Paris (P)—Summer shade hats are going to be wide, extending to the tip of the shoulder in some instances, but they will not be round, since the front will nearly always be shorter than the back and sides.

Double decks of felt and straw are shown by a dressmaker-milliner of wide influence. Nearly all hats at this particular house are mushroom in shape.

Natural straw hats of enormous size, with crowns covered with printed or plain colored silk to match the sport or beach costume are an important phase of summer millinery. Use of matching scarves as hat trimmings, particularly on white straw meant for wear with natural colored silk costumes, is another innovation.

YOUTHFUL STRAIGHT LINES

THE STYLE presented in clever straight lines has a plaited inset at side front which softens and lengthens the silhouette. This inset offers excellent opportunity for contrast in color and fabric. The collar gives the effect of irregular neckline, fastened at side with novelty buttons which appear again in overlap of skirt which secures flat hipline. Design No. 2610 adapts itself to sheer woollens, silk crepe, crepe Elizabeth, crepe marcelin, jersey or crepe satin, and later can be made of sports weight linen, printed pique or cotton printed foulard. Just a few seams to join!

THE PATTERN is offered at cost 15 cents as a service to readers who sew, and can be had in sizes 16, 18, 20, 22, 24, 26, 28, 30, 32, 34, 36, 38, 40 and 42 inches bust. It includes a Picture Chart which shows each step in the making from cutting it out to finished garment. Experience isn't at all necessary. Choose now!

NEW FASHION BOOK containing all the Spring styles is 15 cents, but may be obtained for 10 cents if ordered with a pattern.

Blind, Deaf And Dumb Girl Is Second Helen Keller

Spartanburg, S. C. (P)—"A second Helen Keller" is Miss Ruby Miller, 20, student at the South Carolina State Institute for the Deaf and Blind.

Miss Miller, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Miller of Columbia, was left totally blind, deaf and dumb at 2 years of age by an attack of meningitis and for nearly years following remained in a state of undevelopment.

She now can speak plainly, knit, do basket work, bead work, plain sewing, cook, read and play the piano; and has a speaking knowledge of Latin and French, both vocally and by the sign language. She is finishing the regular high school course for the blind and is nearly ready to enter college.

The girl is unable to hear any sound, yet by training she has learned to use her vocal cords in intelligible speech. Although she cannot hear the pitch of her words, they have remarkable inflection and expression. She "hears" by a sense of touch in which she can tell by vibration the words that others speak to her.

To do this she places the fingers of one hand vertically across the speaker's lips and her thumb beneath his chin. As the vibrations are recorded on her sensitive fingers, the meaning is quickly transmitted to her brain and she repeats the words after the speaker to show that she has understood correctly; then she immediately gives, orally, a responsive answer.

From the time Miss Miller was 3 years old until she entered the school for the deaf and blind where she was about 7 years old, nothing had entered her mind. During her first year at school her case seemed hopeless from the standpoint of her learning anything, but during the second year she picked up two or three words, then progressed.

She has no recollection whatever of sound, but says that she can recall having one seen some cows pass the front yard at her home before her illness swept away both sight and hearing.

SPANGLES FOR STREET DRESS FROM CIRCUS

Donning the spangles either by the fashion devotee, the circus rider, or the ball player never has meant putting on a street costume until this year. Formerly spangles in dress were reserved for evening gowns, but now we see street frocks trimmed with tiny dull green, black, pink and red spangles.

"QUICK RESULTS FROM KONJOLA ASTOUNDED ME"

Happy Man Pays High Tribute to Merits of Master Medicine

Many who wisely put Konjola, the new and different medicine, to the test, return to express amazement at the speed with which this modern compound goes to the very source of their ills, and brings relief before they fully realize that Konjola is at work. One does not have to wait long for effects when Konjola's ingredients, 22 of them, the juices of roots and herbs, go with the sufferer's food to the afflicting organs, cleansing and stimulating them to more normal action. Konjola is not designed to give mere temporary relief. It is not that kind of a medicine. Its aim is new, abundant and glorious health. The wonderful story of Konjola is being told daily by the Konjola Man, who is at Schintz Bros. Drug Store, 114 West College Ave., this city, where he is meeting the public and explaining this new medicine. Konjola stands only on a record of matchless achievements. Learn why it is hailed as the medicine with more than a million friends. See what it has done and is doing. Find out about any number of happy experiences like that of Mr. L. A. White, 5130 Sheridan Road, Chicago, Ill., who made the following statement:

"The quick—almost immediate—results I found from Konjola astounded me. I had read and heard so much about this new compound of 22 ingredients, that I felt that it would help me, but I never dreamed that there could be a medicine that could work so fast and so thoroughly. After indigestion and constipation that clung to me for the past two years, I was badly run-down, was losing steadily in weight, could not sleep well and felt generally miserable and low in vitality."

"But two bottles of this wonderful medicine put a quick stop to all of my ills. In two weeks Konjola did more for me than all the medicines and treatments I tried in two years. I got up rested and refreshed every morning; the constipation was ended within a week, and my digestion is better than it has been in years. In fact, I can eat anything I like. I am feeling stronger, and am better in every way. I shall proceed with the treatment, for I can feel Konjola building me up day by day. Konjola gave me the surprise of my life."

So it goes. Such triumphs as these are what have made Konjola famous; such victories account for the fact that over a million bottles of this amazing medicine were sold in a neighboring state in four months.

The Konjola Man is at Schintz Bros. Drug Store, 114 West College Ave., Appleton, where he is meeting the public daily, explaining the merits of this medicine. Free samples given.

Where does that delicious flavor come from?

What makes some baked foods taste so much better than others? Ask the wise old cook—she'll tell you this finer flavor comes from Pillsbury's Best Flour, because Pillsbury's Best is made only from certain kinds of carefully selected, full-flavored wheat.

Ask the food editors of women's magazines—women who have studied baking all their lives. They'll tell you to choose your flour carefully—that flour has a lot to do with the flavor of the foods you bake. Try it yourself—use Pillsbury's Best the next time you bake—you'll notice a delicate, unmistakably richer flavor in all your foods!

Pick Teams For Drive For Members

CAPTAINS and their teams for a membership campaign were appointed at the meeting of the Zion Lutheran Senior society Monday night at the church. Louis Waltemer, Jr., captain, will be assisted by Elizabeth Kranzsch, Esther Boese, Everett Stecker and Virgie Boyer. Marie Kranzsch, captain, will have as members of her team, Donald Kranzsch, Walter Reffke, Viola Feldhahn and Wilmer Jenner. John Bernice Brown will captain a team composed of Dorothy Theiss, Meta Reffke, Helen Rossberg and Harold Falk.

Twenty members were present and plans were made for the next social on Monday night, April 15 at the school hall. Rook and hearts will be played and members of the committee in charge will be Marie Kranzsch, Esther Boese, Everett Stecker and Donald Kranzsch.

The organization will present a three act comedy, "Clod-Hopper" at a date to be selected later. Miss Freda Hoyer is the director. The cast of characters includes Meta Reffke, Judy Elliot, the Clod-Hopper; Esther Boese, Juliette Beam, a boarding house keeper; Virgie Boyer, Charmaine Carter, an actress; Bernice Brown, Mrs. Chigerson Boggs; Everett Stecker, George Chigerson Boggs; Gilbert Stecker, Cecy Gump, the hired man; Wilmer Jenner, Septimus Green, a book agent. The play in all probability will be presented two nights and proceeds will go to a building fund for the new school.

YOUNG WOMEN OF CHURCH PRESENT FARCE COMEDY

"The Mummy and the Mumps," a sure-fire comedy-farce, will be given at St. Joseph's hall Sunday and Monday evening, April 7 and 8, under the auspices of the Young Ladies society. The play, written by Larry E. Johnson, is under the direction of Henry J. Jung of Neenah. The cases include Misses Helen Kitzinger, Cecile Haag, Marie Schmidt, Hazel Hammen, and Marie Dohr, and Harold Hassman, William Delgen, George Theiss, John Rechner, and George Haag.

To escape being quarantined for a case of mumps, Sir Hector Fish, a distinguished young scientist who recently discovered the mummy of King Tut's queen, adopts an extremely unconventional method of traveling to his destination, an exclusive girls' school in Boston. His presence is discovered and kept secret by a clever girl pupil. There is another Sir Hector Fish in the field, and consequently mistaken identities afford an unusual measure of complications.

CARD PARTIES

Christian Mother society of St. Mary church will hold the first of its series of open card parties at 2:30 Friday afternoon of this week. There will be tables for bridge and schafkopf and Mrs. Julia Woods will be the chairman of the committee in charge of the party.

James Lautenschlager, William Steenis and Otto Zuehlke will be the prizes at skat Monday night at Elk club, where the weekly skat tournament was in progress. About 24 men played.

The snow storm necessitated the postponement of the card party planned for Easter Monday by the St. Agnes Guild of All Saints Episcopal church. The party will be held next Monday afternoon at the parish hall.

Eighteen tables of cards were in play at the open card party at Sacred Heart hall Monday night. Mrs. Peter Jacobs, Joseph and Mrs. J. Boelsen won prizes at schafkopf, Peter Whydolski and Charles Wein-further the prizes at skat and Mrs. Joseph Bauer and Mrs. William Recker the plumpack prizes. Honors at bridge went to Miss Louise Hopfensperger and Mark VanderVel-den. Joint chairmen of the party were Mrs. Charles Selig and Mrs. Joseph Recker.

Bridge, schafkopf and plumpack will be played at the first of a series of open afternoon card parties at 2:30 Thursday afternoon at St. Joseph hall given by the Ladies Aid society of St. Joseph church. Mrs. Theodore Held, Mrs. Edgar Walter, Miss Agnes Rossmel, Mrs. Arthur Rossmel, Mrs. Henry Rossmel and Mr. Joseph Rossmel will be members of the committee in charge.

Do You Think--

It will pay you to take a chance on unfamiliar foods just because they are a few cents cheaper? It takes just one distasteful dish to spoil a whole dinner -- and no dinner is better than the foods you put in it. There may be a few prices in town lower than those at Scheil's -- but you won't find any better quality anywhere.

HEARING ON TAX BILLS SCHEDULED FOR APRIL 9

Madison—(AP)—Taxes, a subject of particular interest to the citizen at this season of the year, will receive his share of attention when the Senate meets again April 9.

Ten bills dealing with taxation will be given public hearings on that day by the Senate committee on corporations and taxation. If the first afternoon does not provide sufficient time to hear all the measures, the hearing will be extended throughout the week.

Bills to be considered include the Kohler administration measure introduced by Senator H. D. Daggett, Conservative, which increases slightly the exemptions on incomes, and the bill of Senator Glenn D. Roberts, Progressive, which calls for a return to the provisions of the 1925 Blaine income tax law.

NEWS BY RADIO AS GALE TEARS WIRES

14 Newspapers in State Avail Selves of Emergency Service

Milwaukee—(AP)—Radio proved a boon to newspapers of Wisconsin and the upper peninsula of Michigan Monday when it substituted for the telegraph as a means of transmitting the Associated Press news report.

Mute evidence of the success of the broadcast of the news report over WTMM, the Milwaukee Journal station, most powerful in the state, was brought by mail Tuesday. "By Radio from the Associated Press," "Via Radio" were the captions on Telegraph news in various papers of the state which, gave proof of the success of the broadcast, which was continued Tuesday.

The radio was reported to Monday in the face of the worst conditions since 1922 when a sleet storm struck the Fox River Valley, causing $5,000,000 damage. When the Associated Press station prior to telegraph circuit on which 27 papers in Wisconsin and the upper peninsula are served with a news report, opened Monday morning it was with only three points. The rest were cut off from Milwaukee. Many were given service through St. Paul.

With no word as to the fate of 14 newspapers, the Associated Press accepted the aid of the Milwaukee Journal, which made its broadcasting station available for the transmission of a news report.

With no previous arrangements to broadcast, a problem presented itself—how to inform the newspapers they would receive the news report by radio. The Associated Press stated everything on radio listeners, and applied them of the situation and asked them to advise their newspapers of the broadcast. It was successful.

1 MAIL DELIVERY
MADE MONDAY TO KAUKAUNA HOMES

Only Small Part of Rural Routes Are Covered by Carriers

Kaukauna—Only one mail delivery was made in the residential district Monday instead of two because of the high snow drifts. Only a small part of the rural routes were covered by the rural carriers, who were forced to travel by foot, but a large number of farmers were able to get their mail from the cheese factory when they came in with their milk.

According to Postmaster Adolph Mill, rural routes 4 and 5 are handled as two separate routes from Dec. 31 until April 1, after which one carrier takes care of it for the summer. Monday the change was made and the carrier was unable to handle the territory which is in almost as bad a state as it was during the winter. It is expected that regular delivery will be made on the routes by the end of the week, providing warm weather prevails here.

Many extra men were hired by street commissioners Thomas Reardon and Joseph Kuehn to help clean the snow from the streets. No streets were cleaned their entire width Monday as the men working the plow and scraper were ordered to make a wide path through the center of the roads and to cover as many in the city as possible.

The snow is expected to keep a large number from the voting polls Tuesday. Cars were unable to travel Monday morning, but by noon the main streets in the city were in a condition to permit automobile traffic. Bus service to Appleton was discontinued from Sunday evening until Monday afternoon.

CANDIDATES SPEND
$33, THEY REPORT

Financial Statements Are Filed With Louis Wolf, City Clerk

Kaukauna—Money spent by candidates for municipal offices for campaigning for election amounted to $33.05, according to reports filed by the candidates Saturday with Louis Wolf, city clerk. Fourteen candidates' reports showed that there were no expenses in connection with their campaign. Eight candidates showed expenses of small amounts.

The various amounts spent by the candidates are: Eugene Faust, $6.25; A. H. Knox, $2.50; Walter Cooper, $4; Otto Luedtke, $3; Sylvester Ester, $5.25; Earnest Landreman, $2.50; Ben Bell, $4.50; William Wool, $3.25. Those who did not spend any money for election purposes were: Nick Schwinn, E. E. Zekind, L. F. Nelson, Mrs. Mary Regenfuss, Joseph V. Derick, Edward Bay, Charles Wendt, J. A. Lundemeyer, William Powers, Max Streich, Frank Gertz, Fred Riesel, Edward Grebe, and John Nielsen.

NOTE MAIL INCREASE
DURING EASTER WEEK

Kaukauna—Mail at the local post office was greatly increased during Easter week according to Postmaster A. Mill. The increased use of the greeting card which requires only a one cent postage stamp was noticed and the practice is becoming popular. Postage of two cents was required on all cards, but this ruling was changed.

All government envelopes sold in postoffices were reduced in price April 1. The reduction ranges from 10 cents to 80 cents on a thousand, according to the size.

RUBBISH COLLECTION
POSTPONED BY STORM

Kaukauna—Rubbish removal which was to start Wednesday has been postponed indefinitely by Thomas Reardon, road commissioner. The heavy snow storm which the city experienced will keep city employees busy opening roads and streets for sometime. The storm also made it impossible for residents to collect their rubbish.

COUNCIL WILL OPEN
BIDS FOR SEWER WORK

Kaukauna—Bids, for sewers on Jefferson-st. Ninth-st and the 1st and will be presented at a meeting of the common council at 8 o'clock Tuesday evening in the council chambers of the municipal building. The Post-Crescent's representative at Kaukauna is Lloyd Derus. His telephone number is 194-W. Business with The Post-Crescent may be transacted through Mr. Derus.

FLAT TIRES KEEP
PASTOR AND CHOIR
FROM OWN SERVICE

Kaukauna—The Rev. Robert Falk and choir of the First Congregational church had charge of the Easter service at Seymour Sunday morning and were scheduled to have charge of the services at the local church, but were prevented from doing so by two flat tires.

The group, consisting of eight persons, left in two cars early Sunday morning for Seymour where they took charge of the services. On the return trip one of the cars had a flat tire which forced the party to return to Seymour to have it repaired. The second start resulted in a blow-out in one of the tires. After this second mishap was repaired the group journeyed to this city, arriving here at 1 o'clock in the afternoon. Hugo Weisenbach took charge of the services at the local church in the absence of the pastor.

Social Items

Kaukauna—A regular meeting of the young folks of the Methodist church was held at 6:30 Sunday evening. Edward Ashe was the leader.

A 6 o'clock covered dish dinner was held by the Sunday school board of Immanuel Reformed church in the church assembly Monday evening. After the dinner the monthly business meeting was held.

There will be a meeting of the Ladies' Aid society of Trinity Lutheran church at 2:30 Wednesday afternoon in the school hall. Routine business will be transacted.

A regular meeting of the Free and Accepted Masons was held Monday evening in Masonic hall on Third-st. Routine business was conducted.

7 BIRTHS, 8 DEATHS
IN KAUKAUNA IN MARCH

Kaukauna—There was one more death than births in the city during March, there being seven births and eight deaths, according to the monthly report of Dr. W. N. Nolan, city health officer. There were seven births in February. No marriages were reported during the month. The general health of the city is good, according to the physician.

Scout Leaders' Course
Attracts Kaukauna Men

Kaukauna—Eight Kaukauna persons will attend a scout leader's course at Armory G. Appleton, at 7:30 Wednesday evening. They are: H. C. Ransley, Leslie Ransley, John Niesen, Olin G. Dryer, Arthur Schmalz.

The course is open to persons interested in scout leadership who expect to apply the knowledge in boys' clubs. The purpose of the course is to give students a general knowledge of the aims and content of the boy scout program, with stress on the methods employed to teach the program to boys. It is being presented under the five-year progressive training program of the National Council of boy scouts and will include nine meetings, two Saturday hikes, and one overnight hike.

CHURCH PROGRAM
DELAYED BY GALE

Storm Ties Up Traffic Entirely for First Time This Year

Kimberly—Traffic and communication in this village was seriously obstructed Monday afternoon by the severe snow storm Sunday and Monday morning. No buses ran into the village all day Monday and roads were not open to traffic until evening when a Wisconsin Michigan Power Co. snow plow opened the main street. During the afternoon the Kimberly-Clark trucks broke trail. No others cars were out. This was the first time this winter season that Kimberly was without bus service. Several men who work in the Kimberly-Clark mill here from out of town cities came to work on skis Monday morning. About 10 per cent of the employees of the mill were unable to reach their work on time.

On account of the inability of the members of the Presbyterian church choir and church to attend services Sunday evening the following Easter program was postponed until next Sunday:

Awakening Chorus—Choir.
What Mother Told Me—Jean Linpert.

MANY SNOWBOUND
AFTER STORM AT FOREST JUNCTION

Transportation Activities Checked Monday Due to Traffic Tieup

Forest Junction—Disrupted railroad service and a suspension of all motorized traffic occasioned considerable inconvenience to customary business pursuits on Monday in the wake of the Easter snowstorm. Holiday visitors, who had been unable to leave with their automobiles in the storm Sunday afternoon or evening, found themselves equally helpless Monday morning, when no trains on either the Northwestern or St. Paul railroads were available until nearly noon. The customary loading of cattle and shipping at the St. Paul stockyards Monday forenoon was abandoned for lack of freight service and postponed until next week.

The special Easter cantata at Zion Evangelical church could not be given Sunday evening and its presentation is to be delayed for one week. A committee meeting of the Appleton District Campmeeting association which was to be held here Monday afternoon to consider plans for a new building to be erected at the district campgrounds here was also postponed for one week.

The snowbound roads, precluding the use of automobiles, are expected to have a deterring effect on the number of votes which will be cast at the town election on Tuesday.

HILBERT WRECKERS
BUSY DURING STORM

All Available Garage Space Filled Monday by Marooned Cars

Special to Post-Crescent

Hilbert—The unexpected blizzard Sunday caused trouble for tourists or those visiting at their homes Easter. A number from Milwaukee who arrived here Saturday evening and Sunday morning, tried to get back Sunday afternoon. About one mile out of town their machines met huge drifts and were forced back. Many persons parked their cars at garages and went back on trains.

Wreckers from local garages were busy all Sunday afternoon towing out stalled cars, mostly all on highway 57. At one place on 57 to Chil-ton, two local garages were filled Sunday evening with stored cars waiting for favorable weather.

Trains were delayed considerably Monday due to the blizzard and snow storm. Passenger train No. 10 from the north, due here at 7:35 arrived at 10:50. Passenger No. 31 from the south, due here at 10:25 arrived at noon. Other trains were delayed from one-half hour to an hour.

Mrs. Edward Volght entertained a number of friends from here Sunday evening in honor of her birthday anniversary. Relatives and friends from all over the country were expected, were unable to come due to the snow storm, but are planning to present some evening this week.

Mrs. Nick Wickrichen of Random Lake, is visiting her mother, Mrs. Anna Helmer.

The Womens Relief corps will hold its next meeting Thursday, April 11. Two new members will be initiated. They are Mrs. Sylvester Volght and Mrs. Edward Volght.

The birthday committee will serve. It consists of Mrs. Tena Olander, Georgia Jantz, Verna Schmidt, Edna Voight, Ida Boesclager and Olive Madler.

Florence Carlson of River Falls, is spending some time at the home of her brother, Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Carlson.

Mr. and Mrs. George Redig and children spent Easter with relatives at Brillville.

Miss Arlene Holtz, who has been employed at Milwaukee, came home Saturday to spend Easter at her home. She left Monday evening for Green Bay and will be employed there by the Standard Oil company.

Raymond Laughlin of Milwaukee, has visited at the F. A. Holtz home since Friday evening. He returned Monday morning, when he was accompanied by his wife, Mrs. Charlotte Holtz, who has been at her home since Tuesday.

Miss Sylvia Ort, and Clarence Weber of Milwaukee, spent Easter at the home of the latter's mother, Mrs. Gertrude Weber.

Theodore Guebert of Hilbert and Mr. Doering of Chilton, returned for the weekend from the Winnebago Teachers convention which was held at Appleton.

Bernamin and Walter Dietrich and Miss Eleanor Peterman of Milwaukee, visited at the John Marx and Mrs. Mary Dietrich homes Easter Sunday. They were accompanied by Joseph Marx, who will visit his parents until Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Norman Jaekels of Sheboygan, spent their Easter vacation with the latter's father, returning home Monday evening.

Sylvester Jaekels of Milwaukee, visited at his home Easter Sunday.

The Misses Helen and Tillie Grube spent Easter with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Grube, returning to Milwaukee Monday morning.

Mrs. Touchett and children spent their Easter vacation with relatives at Fond du Lac.

Sagging Wire Sets Tree
Ablaze During Blizzard

Forest Junction—The unusual occurrence of a burning tree endangering a building on the H. B. Micke farm, route 1, during the storm on Sunday evening, resulted in a summons to the local fire department to quench the blaze. Charged wires of the Wisconsin Public Service line, sagging heavily in the gale accompanying the snowstorm, came into frequent contact with the tree and ignited it.

The new fire-truck with a detachment of three men under Chief A. A. Jansch was sent to the place, where no difficulty was encountered in subduing the fire with a stream from the chemical tank. The tree was cut down to avoid further contact with the wires. There was no damage to the building. To prevent the possibilities of receiving an electric shock, it was necessary to shut off the current on the power line until the tree was felled.

SPINACH CANNING
IN CALIFORNIA IS BIG INDUSTRY NOW

Pack for Year Expected to Exceed Last Year's Pack by 10 Per Cent

By J. C. ROYLE

Copyright 1929

New York—"Eat some more spinach" may have been a comic strip joke in some cities but it has turned into a reality and a profit. Spinach canning in California is at its peak, with prospects that the pack for 1929 will exceed that for last year by 10 per cent or more.

In 1928 the spinach pack in that state totaled 2,904,542 cases. That was roughly a million cases in excess of any previous pack, indicating that consumption of canned spinach has been growing phenomenally.

Despite the increased size of the 1929 pack, indications point to a ready absorption. It ought hurt the California canner but it has saved him from destruction by recent rains and a raw output higher than last year is anticipated.

Asparagus canning in the far west began today. The crop is normal and last year's supplies are well sold out.

CENTER OF PACKING

The country about San Francisco is the big center of packing for this vegetable and there are prospects that the 1929 pack of "grass" will be close to that of 1928, when 2,337,950 cases were put up.

The cling peach situation is the soft spot in the fruit canning outlook. The acreage devoted to cling peaches has shown a constant increase and the cling pack has grown from 5,368,598 cases in 1924 to 14,811,608 cases in 1928. There still is a heavy carry-over from the latter crop to be disposed of. This amounted to some 16,000,000 cases.

The peach canners of the west have recently made a promotion arrangement with a large manufacturer of breakfast cereals which is expected to be mutually advantageous and vigorous efforts being made to sell more canned peaches abroad.

Some progress is being made in preserving over-ripe fruit for packing processes but this will be a minor factor in the big peach problem.

Progress is also being made in popularizing the sale of ripe California apricots, which are better colored and more attractive than the firmer fruit.

The Hawaiian pineapple packers this year are likely to meet strong competition in eastern markets from the producers having Porto Rico plantations. Canned grapefruit competition also is tightening up. The cold fruit pack, however, and the fruit preserved by use of sugar will be a larger factor than ever because refrigeration is becoming more efficient.

COMMODITY NOTES

Dairy Products

Chicago—Reports indicate that production of butter is gradually increasing, and this has had a weakening influence on prices. Indications are that the make is about nine per cent over a year ago and about 5 per cent over a week ago.

Retail Trade

Atlanta—The approach of the season of Metropolitan Grand Opera has stimulated retail sales materially in the fashionable shops. Hotel reservations already are at a record height.

Steel

Pittsburg—There has been little change in the output situation in the iron and steel industry since March 15. The open hearth departments are at capacity and being pushed and the Bessemer departments are turning out about two thirds of what they could produce under pressure. Total production, therefore, is about 5 per cent of capacity.

secretary of the committee. The committee's financial report has been placed in the mails for delivery to the secretary of state.

Of the total expense incurred, Mr. Hovey will report, $588.90 was his salary and salaries of other workers. Other items of expense include: office expenses and advertising, $731.31; postage $88.50.

FLOOD THREAT IS CARRIED BY LATEST STORM

Millions in Property Damage Throughout Midwest as Result of Gale

restore them to normalcy and reopen communication between many state centers cut off from the outside world since Sunday. Many other towns had only one wire to the outside. Roads rapidly were being reopened.

Last reports from Green Bay said that 200 persons were marooned in a Brown-co dance hall while high water from the bay backed up and marooned 50 dancers in another hall on the shore. They were reported to have been without food since Sunday night.

Two hundred persons were forced to remain overnight, with only a small supply of food, on two inter-urban trains stalled between Sheboygan and Milwaukee. They were freed shortly after noon Monday.

FOUR CITIES CUT OFF

Press association wires were being rapidly set up Tuesday and at 9 o'clock in the forenoon only four service lines were believed to be without service from the Midwest Press. These were Sheboygan, Manitowish, Two Rivers and Fond du Lac. A radio broadcast of news for them, as was done Monday when 14 papers were without service for a portion of the day, was planned, the first broadcast being at 9:30.

The storm swooped over into the southeastern corner of the upper Michigan peninsula. Lashing waves piled a huge ice field on a highway north of Menominee which was removed only by blasting. One woman, driving along the lake shore road, was nearly drowned when the mountainous waves swept her car off the road.

While it sleeted, rained and snowed in most of Wisconsin, the extreme northern section was basking in sunshine and spring breezes, unaware of any storm, as was most of upper Michigan.

Only scanty reports were still available early Monday morning on the total extent of the storm damage.

RESTORE WIRE LINES

The American Telegraph and Telephone Co., the Western Union and the Postal Telegraph and Cable Co., as well as the telephone company Tuesday had crews at work in all parts of the storm area, untravelling tangled wires and repairing broken wires. In some places single service wire communications were possible, but such a deluge of matter was waiting to be moved that all messages were seriously delayed.

Green Bay department stores had to close for lack of clerks and customers and because of flooded heating plants. Street cars and busses were not in operation Monday.

The heavy snow caused the north wall of the Moose Club house, there, to collapse, causing about $10,000 damage. Several small frame buildings were also crushed under the weight of the snow.

Reports from Chippewa Falls stated that although six inches of snow fell, there was little delay in traffic.

SEVERE SLEET STORM

Linenmen, police and county highway men worked as night attendants to restore service along the lines in the vicinity of Elkhorn where the worst sleet storm in years was experienced.

Elkhorn had no Western Union service, no long distance telephone service and practically no light or power on Monday night. The unofficial estimate of damage to the local telephone company was estimated at $30,000 and to the Elkhorn Light and Water commission $10,000.

Although it was reported that the snow was melting rapidly in Green-co, Monroe was still off from wire communication Monday night. Hundreds of poles were down as the result of the storm Sunday and much damage was done to trees. Four inches of snow fell.

GOVERNOR WILL CAST VOTE IN HOME TOWN

Madison—(AP)—Governor Walter J. Kohler was expected Tuesday to cast his vote in his home town, Kohler, near Sheboygan, on the question of allowing a raise in legislators' salaries, two consecutive terms for sheriffs and repeal of the state dry law and legalization of beer.

After spending the week end in Kohler he stayed over to cast his ballot. The governor's attitude on the salary increase for legislators is well known—he favors it—and he has expressed no opposition to allowing sheriffs to serve for more than one term. But his attitude on the most interesting part of the referendum, the beer and repeal questions, has remained a secret.

Should the repeal be approved by the people or the legalization of beer demanded, he will probably be called upon to make his attitude known by the signature of a vote of the legislative bills carrying out the demands of the voters.

Col. W. L. Smith, private and executive secretary to the governor, was expected to vote in his home town Neillsville, to which place he returned after the funeral of his mother. He is a former state senator. His former associates, the present legislators, were nearly at home for the election and for celebration of Easter. The session was recessed last week until Aug. 3.

POOR COMMITTEE MEET DEFERRED TO APRIL 10

The county board poor committee, which was to meet Wednesday afternoon to act on applications for old age pensions, has postponed its meeting until Wednesday, April 10, when it will act on old age and mothers' pension applications. There were not enough old age pension applications to make a special meeting necessary.

Comb Australian Bush For Four Lost Airmen

Sydney, N. S. W.—(AP)—Search was being made Tuesday by air and water in the Australian bush for the missing plane Southern Cross and four men. Absence of word from Captain Charles Kingsford-Smith, Charles T. Uim and their two companions, who radioed Sunday they were coming down in a rainstorm 100 miles east of Wyndham, western Australia, led to anxiety.

An Australian airways plane chartered by a newspaper arrived at Wyndham at noon Tuesday on a reconnaissance trip. A launch proceeded up the Drysdale river with petrol and stores.

While there was considerable difference of opinion as to where to look for the aviators, who were en route from Sydney to England, there was a feeling they were forced down near either Drysdale mission station or at the Port George mission on the Prince Regent river. The latter place is 130 miles east of Derby, western Australia.

In either event the country is indeed largely only by natives, many of whom are unfriendly and reputedly cannibalistic, although at Drysdale the influence of the missions is said to have made them more amicable toward white men.

It is believed the radio of the plane was put out of commission when they landed. Such is the nature of the terrain and the bush that it was regarded as unlikely a plane would be able to get up again after a forced landing.

The London Daily Express in a dispatch from Sydney said Tuesday "It is feared they are lost in a wild inaccessible jungle country without food."

A dispatch to the London Evening News Monday said it was believed the aviators were safe but this was not borne out by other advices from Australia.

SUPREME COURT REVERSES JURY IN "COW" CASE

Set Aside $5,800 Verdict Awarded Here Against Livestock Association

The Wisconsin Supreme court Tuesday morning announced that it reversed the verdict of an Outagamie county municipal court jury awarding damages to E. R. Bowerman and son Roy Bowerman on their counterclaim in the suit instituted by the Wisconsin Livestock association, F. E. Harriman, Sr. and Roy M. Harriman. It is not known here whether the case will be sent back for a new trial.

The Wisconsin Livestock association and the Harrimans started the action against the Bowermans to recover a number of cattle they had placed on the Bowerman farm under a contract. The Bowermans refused to give up the cattle, contending they had a property right in them and they filed a counterclaim against the Harrimans, charging they suffered losses because some of the cattle were diseased.

A jury in municipal court, under Judge Fred V. Heinenmann who was called in from county court to try the case, returned a verdict awarding the Bowermans $5,813.11, which included court costs. The livestock association appealed to the Supreme court which Tuesday reversed the trial court's verdict. The case was tried here in May 1927.

RURAL CARRIERS MUST USE WAGONS ON ROUTES

Using wagons, sleds and automobiles rural carriers at the Appleton postoffice succeeded Monday in covering only parts of their routes. On Tuesday the carriers were planning to use wagons entirely as the snow is soft and slushy and sleighing is too hard. It was expected that the carriers would be able to cover most of their routes Tuesday although they expected to encounter some trouble. Some roads where drifts from eight to fifteen deep have formed, are impassable and will remain so until the county plows have opened them.

U. S. INSPECTORS FINISH COMPLETE INSPECTION HERE

Six federal postal inspectors, under supervision of T. W. Evans, district inspector, completed a week's investigation at the local postoffice Monday and were to leave the city Tuesday. The inspectors checked the records at the local office and made inspections of the carrier and clerk systems with the view of recommending enlargements of both to meet the needs of the city. The report of the inspectors will be forwarded direct to Washington, D. C. and Acting Postmaster F. F. Wetengel expects word from the federal department in the near future as to what action will be taken.

SUPERVISOR MAY BE ROAD COMMISSIONER

Any supervisor, who is also a member of the highway committee, may legally hold the office of highway commissioner after April 2 providing he is not a candidate for reelection and that he resigns from the road committee according to an opinion received this week by Stanley A. Studd, district attorney, from John W. Reynolds, attorney general.

Mr. Studd had previously told the highway committee that he felt that the law made it possible for supervisors to be candidates for the office under the above listed regulations, but he had written the attorney general for confirmation of his findings.

The attorney general also confirmed Mr. Studd's opinion that the highway committee had the full authority to fill an unexpired term of highway commissioner without sanction of the county board.

GIRLS WILL DANCE AT FOLK FESTIVAL

Swedish and Danish Dances Will Be Offered by Violet Troop

Girls from the Violet troop of Girl Scouts will present a Swedish and a Danish dance at the folk festival Thursday and Friday at the Armory. The girls, who will dance "Gustaf's Skaol" and "Ave of Diamonds," will be dressed in peasant costumes, the boys wearing striped jumpers, and the girls leotards, full skirts and frilled caps. Miss Helen Andruskevich and Mrs. H. A. Honeywell, captains of the troop, are directing the dance.

DIRECTORS MEET

A meeting of the board of directors of Appleton Yomans club will be held at the club rooms Thursday afternoon. The meeting will begin at 2:30.

Relief from Financial Worry

Bills are causing worry in countless households, particularly at this season. The heavy expenses of winter have left little or no reserve funds for the requirements of spring—moving, new clothing, repairs and dozens of other family necessities. The Household Plan enables you to pay your bills and still buy the things you need.

Borrow at New Rate Nearly 1/3 Lower

Loans payable in twenty equal monthly payments cost as follows:

Total Amount of Loan	Average Monthly Cost
$ 50.....	66c
$100.....	$1.32
$200.....	$2.63
$300.....	$3.94

Loans may be paid in full at any time—you pay ONLY on unpaid balance, for actual time you keep the money.

How We Make Loans

We loan up to $500 to families for domestic use. No outside signers are required—signature of husband and wife all that is necessary. You receive full amount of loan, no deductions or extra charges, such as fines or fees. Employers, relatives, friends or tradespeople are not notified.

GLENNA COLLETT WINS MEDAL HONORS

Goes Out in 35, a Record Score for Women Golfers

By Associated Press
Pinehurst, N. C.—Shooting a record 73, Glenna Collett of Providence, R. I., national women's champion, took medal honors Monday in the qualifying round of the North and South women's tournament.

Miss Collett went out in 35, believed to be a record round for women and returned in 40 to finish the eighteen holes seven strokes ahead of Miss Martha Parker of New York.

Four were tied for third place. They were Miss Virginia Louise Fordyce of Youngstown, O., Miss Marion Turpie of New Orleans and Mrs. O. Hill of Kansas City, defending champion.

The qualifiers will begin match play eliminations in the tournament Tuesday.

Other qualifying round scores as the contestants checked in were: Jane Brooks, New York, 95; Mrs. E. J. Baker, Boston, 91; Beatrice Gottlieb, New York, 99; Mrs. C. H. Hill, Kansas City, 94; Mrs. Melvin Jones, Chicago, 92.

Madison Orent, Metropolitan district star, had two 43s for an 86, Edith Quier, Reading, Pa., turned in an 89.

TOD MORGAN WILL DEFEND HIS TITLE

Meets Santiago Zorilla in Los Angeles Thursday Night

Los Angeles—(AP)—Tod Morgan's junior lightweight championship belt, originally held by Johnny Dundee, will go to Santiago Zorilla if the little San Blas Indian defeats Morgan here next Thursday night.

The belt was won by Morgan when he toppled the junior lightweight crown from Mike Ballesino's brow here in 1925.

Morgan, troubled for a few days with a boil on his right leg, resumed a stiff training pace Monday. A workout Tuesday was to be his last hard conditioning.

Zorilla, who has been working one day and laying off the next, boxed several rounds Monday and planned to repeat the same training Tuesday. The Panamanian has been traveling through his workouts like a whirlwind.

New York—Pete Mack, Jersey City, and Dominic Petrone, New York, drew (10). Sammy Dorfman, New York, outpointed Joe Ryder, New York (10).

Ty Shows the Youngsters How

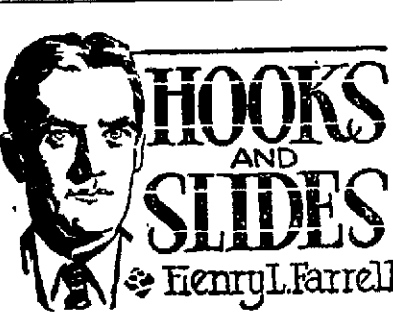

Being able to do what he pleased during the spring months for the first time in more than 20 years, Ty Cobb did what he pleased—and practiced baseball with the Baltimore Orioles at Augusta, Ga., where he lives. Cobb, retired from baseball, plans a jaunt to Europe with his family this summer, but spring arrived and the ball clubs went south to train and Cobb got the bug. He is shown here giving one of the Baltimore rookies a few pointers on how to hold a bat, above and below, taking a swing at the ball.

Andre Routis Orderd To Defend Feather Title

BY JOHN J. ROMANO
Copyright 1929
Chicago—Paul Pohn, president of the National Boxing Association, has cabled Andre Routis, world's featherweight champion, that his six months period of grace has expired and that he will have to meet a worthy contender for the title or be suspended in the twenty seven states comprising the roster of the N. B. A.

Pohn lifted Joe Dundee's water-tight crown and approved the recent Jackie Fields-Young Jack Thompson contest as a championship affair with the result that Fields has a five thousand dollar oct

HENRY L. FARRELL

WELL OF ALL THINGS!
When Walter Johnson gathered around him in Tampa, Fla., he told them there were to be no club training rules. He told them they could make their own rules but that they would have to be guided by the realization that they would have to be in condition to play their best every day or whenever they were called upon.

But the club had been in camp only a few days when Johnson was forced to assume the role of a disciplinarian. And guess who was the first man on the club who had to listen to one of Walter's mid sermons?

No one but Mr. Al Schacht, the distinguished coach of the club and one of the celebrated clowns of the league.

SATANIC, THOSE SCRIBES
Some newspapermen friends of Al's, made Tampa on their tour of the southern training camps and they invited Al to dinner with them. Along with them was Jim Downing, the popular Tampa boxing promoter. It was after nine o'clock when the newspapermen finished their stories and it was later when they arrived at a famous eating place in the Latin quarter. Downing, great Tampa booster, insisted upon showing the party the rights and they finally wound up in a night club. Schacht was recognized and he was forced to do some entertaining.

Time slipped by and it was too early in the morning to mention when Schacht was dropped at the hotel where the ball club stopped. He mounted the steps bravely with pep in his step and a whistle on his lips. He strutted over to the desk, got his key, greeted the sleepy night staff and went to bed.

And in the morning he was told that Mr. Johnson would have a few words with him.

JUST A FEW WORDS FROM WALT
"Al, I am surprised at you," Mr. Johnson said in his nice mid way. "You are the first one to break the training rules."

"But there ain't any rules, are there, Walt?" Al asked.

"You broke your own rules, Al," Johnson said.

"I just came in a little late, that's all, Walt," Schacht said.

"It was a little too late for this early time of the season," Johnson said. "Supposing some of those young fellows had seen you come in. They were all asleep, I suppose. You're more than a player on this club. You're a coach and one of my

KIMBERLY CLUBBERS MEET NIAGARA FIVE WEDNESDAY NIGHT

Two Teams Battling for Chance to Take Trip to Niagara Falls

Kimberly—Now that there is snow again the sport loving fans of this village may just as well have basketball again and that is just what they will get Wednesday night at the Kimberly club, when the Niagara basketball team invades Kimberly. It won't be just a game to see who wins, but it will be a game to see who goes to Niagara Falls, N. Y., to play the Kimberly-Clark corporation team of that city. The Falls team won the Niagara Falls Industrial league pennant and as there was no K-C Interim tournament this year they want to play the best team from the corporation's western mills.

The Kimberly and Niagara teams met twice this year both winning their home games. So this game is to decide who is who and which team will take the trip to New York.

The Niagara team has an enviable record in twenty-six wins and but five defeats. They defeated the Crystal Falls, Mich., team on their home floor, the first team to do it in two years.

The Kimberly club team has won twenty-nine games and lost nine this season winning two tournaments, the north eastern Wisconsin district amateur tournament and the state amateur tournament at Green Bay last week. Due to the importance of the game the best referee possible will be engaged, A. C. Denny basketball coach at Lawrence college has been asked to handle the game. In case he is unable William Pickett or Werner Witte of the Roosevelt Junior high school probably will be the next choice. The game is scheduled to start promptly at eight o'clock.

KOTAL HOLDS FIRST BASEBALL MEETING

Hopes to Be Able to Get Line on Possible Team for 1929 Season

Snow drifts and stalled automobiles seldom preclude the baseball season but they won't interfere with the baseball meeting which will be held at the Y. M. C. A. Tuesday evening by Eddie Kotal, as he attempts to get a few things lined up for the opening of the season here next month. The meeting is being called for 7:30.

Just what the new holder of the Appleton franchise has in his mind for a team 1929 remains to be found out at Tuesday's meeting. Several youngsters who played last season have signified their intention of being in the fold again this year but there still are numerous vacancies resulting from the desire of at least three fellows to try their luck in western cities.

The midwinter atmosphere prevalent at the present time is not conducive to getting the boys out for baseball meetings or make their palms itch for a piece of horsehide. But Kotal has hopes of having enough men out to determine what kind of an aggregation he'll have to pick his team from.

BABE RUTH HITTING BALL TO LEFT FIELD

Mobile, Ala.—(AP)—Babe Ruth seems to be preparing a surprise for the American league outfielders when the season starts. There was enough amazement displayed early in the training grind when the Babe started hitting toward left field instead of taking his usual wallop that sent the ball ever toward the right field bleachers. But he has kept his new stunt up. He gave another exhibition of it Monday with three Mobile pitchers as his victims. Ruth nicked each of them for a single and every drive went to left.

Philadelphia—Billy Wallace, Cleveland, stopped Mickey Chaplin, Scranton, Pa., (8). King Tut, Minneapolis, stopped Jack Gallagher, Philadelphia (4). Pinky Kaufman, Hartford, Conn., outpointed Tommy Kid Murphy, Trenton, N. Y. (10).

Training Camp Gossip

MAMI, Fla.—(AP)—Even another defeat by the Braves can't entirely spoil the good spirits of Brooklyn's Robins. A ball game is just a ball game, but to have Glenn Wright back on the job and playing as nothing wrong with his arm is considerably more important.

Winter Haven, Fla.—(AP)—The Philadelphia Nationals were busy packing Tuesday preparatory to leaving for home. They break camp Wednesday and will go direct to Philadelphia for a few days workout before opening the city series against the Athletics. Manager Shotton said he was well satisfied with the condition of his men.

Beaumont, Tex.—(AP)—Harry Holtman signalled his return to good standing Monday by playing first base in faultless style and accounting for the only extra base hit off Malone and Root of the Cubs.

New Orleans, La.—(AP)—John McGraw's New York Giants followed him into town today for a two-game series with the Cleveland Indians. McGraw chose his young southpaw, Bill Walker, to start Tuesday's game and said he would use one other pitcher, either Benton or Hubbell.

Pittsburgh—(AP)—The Post Gazette Tuesday printed a telegram from Paul Waner, pirate holdout outfielder, quoting him as saying he had cut his salary demand slightly but that when he regrettably being absent from the team the club would have to meet his latest demand.

WEATHERMAN SENT SNOW BECAUSE BOYS PLAY GOLF TOO SOON?

Perhaps it was because the weatherman thought Appleton golfers were rushing the season that he sent the snowstorm last Saturday and Sunday.

And if that is the reason perhaps the old fellow was correct. Saturday a group of local enthusiasts flocked down to Green Lake for a round on Tusconia while at least two foursomes sallied forth in search of adventure over on Riverview country club grounds. But if the grounds were fine Saturday, they aren't now and the boys will have to wait 15 days or so before they'll again enjoy their favorite sport.

GREEN SOX PLAYERS HOME FOR REPAIRS

Rachals, Kerkhoff May Be Farmed Out to Akron, O., Club

Green Bay—Home for repairs. That just about explains in a nutshell the return of "Dick" Rachals and "Art" Kerkhoff, Green Bay baseball players from the camp of the Columbus Senators (A. A. club) at Lakeland, Fla.

The players arrived home last week after spending three weeks with the Senators down in Florida, where they sun burn early, and their complexion certainly shows it. Both boys are brown as a berry, Kerkhoff even more so.

The injury jinx camped right on the Green Day pair. The "charley-horse" in Kerkhoff's leg didn't respond to the southern climate and it knotted upon him after about ten days in camp. This put him at a great handicap in shagging sky scrapers.

In one of the early days of practice, Rachals "bore down" a bit too hard and his salary arm kinked. Instead of getting better under treatment, it grew worse and, on the homeward trip he had to lug his traveling bag with his left hand.

Both of the Dayites were loud in praise of their treatment at the hands of the Columbus club. Nemo Leopold, the manager, advised the players to come home and try to fix up their "aches and pains." The Columbus owners have taken over the Akron club of the Ohio league and this outfit starts practicing the last of April. It is quite possible that, if the players get out of the hospital list, the Columbus management will order them to strut their stuff.

Y.M.C.A. Cagers Will Meet High School Five Tuesday

The scene of this story probably was the lobby of the Y. M. C. A., or perhaps it was up in a fourth floor dormitory room where a couple high school teachers and several members of the association basketball team were lounging around.

Perhaps the snow on the ground made the boys think of basketball. And soon the discussion was about the respective merits of the association basketball team and the high school five.

"Why that gang representing the 'Y' couldn't whip cream," Joe Shields remarked with a look at DeLoe, or Roeder, or Wolfe, or Monteth—members in good standing on the association cage team. Perhaps this was said.

"And that high school cage team of yours is too slow to catch cold," perhaps Roeder retorted for he sometimes can think of mean things to say.

"Fine, we'll have the high school team down here in the gym Tuesday night and see what they'll do with you fellows," Shields blurted in answer to the jibe.

And that, perhaps, is how it came to pass that the high school cagers will meet the Y. M. C. A. team Tuesday evening in the association gym.

And PERHAPS, the "Y" five will win—PERHAPS.

GREEN BAY KELLYS WANT BASEBALL GAMES

Green Bay—The Kelly Club baseball team, city amateur champions, has completed its organization for the coming season and now are preparing its schedule and looking for the strongest amateur teams in northeastern Wisconsin. Games will be preferably booked on a home and home basis but games under any conditions will be arranged where possible.

Last season, its second on the field, the Kellys played the strongest teams in this part of the state and lost only two series, one to the Marquette Cardinals and the other to the Ashokosh Merchants. All of the players are former athletic stars of West Green Bay high, some of whom are not attending higher institutions of learning.

Teams interested are asked to address E. M. Johnson, manager at 120 S. Chestnut-ave. Green Bay.

Says American Golfers Are Cast In Same Mold

BY LAWRENCE PERRY
Copyright 1929
NEW YORK—In this country just now is a very clever English humorist, a novelist whose writings in Punch over the years have been familiar to many.

As an avocation he pursues golf, as so many Englishmen do—and he plays it studiously and rather well, as so many Englishmen also do.

While here he has been popping about country quite a bit and he has taken time to pursue one of his minor objects in coming to this country: to wit, an investigation concerning the secret of American success in international golf.

After no lengthy research he solved, or at least, he thinks he did, the mystery. Uniformity of style is the answer, he says. Outstanding American golfers, in fact all golfers whether or not they are outstanding, have their game geared in precisely the same way. They might be automatons turned out of the same factory.

They do the same thing in precise the same way. And when a man does a thing wrong, that is to say when he is hooking or slicing or has fallen into some error of omission or commission which is ruining his game, all that is necessary is for a fellow to take a slant at his play.

"Old man," he will say, "your feet are too far apart." Oh, "you are carrying your up-swing too full." Something like that. So the error is cor

DID YOU KNOW THAT—

RT SHIRES, White Sox first baseman, is the dude of the American League.... But he was a half sack of eating tobacco in his face before he goes on the field.... Bill Aaronson, the demon baseball photographer, would drop his camera if he was shooting a king.... If someone said—"Shoot two bits".... Bill was taking shots at the base of the Giant training camp.... Pittsimmmons, the big Giant pitcher, was coming into the bag.... He couldn't stop and he hit Bill and knocked him cold.... Jack Kearns put up the dough to guarantee the purse for the Walker-Loughran fight.... The Brooklyn ordered a ten-piece band to play for an exhibition game down south.... STATE COURT WILL ISSUE RULING ON SANGER PAMPHLET

Must Decide Whether Writings Come Under Class of Indecent Literature

BY BEN G. KLINE
Copyright 1929 by the Consolidated Press Association

San Francisco—The supreme court of California is to be given an opportunity of deciding whether Margaret Sanger's pamphlet on "family limitation" comes within the class of indecent literature, the distribution of which is forbidden by state law according to Austin Lewis, attorney for the northern California committee of the American Civil Liberties Union.

The cause of the proposed action is Carl Rave, Oakland building trades worker and enthusiast on the subject of birth control. Rave, whose enthusiasm in this cause, as a solution of the labor problem and other social ills has made him a sort of legal ward of the Union, is in trouble again and it appears very likely for the first time that he might have to serve time in jail.

Rave, of German extraction, used to tease his mind with the study of socialism and other forms of political action to raise the economical status of the laboring family, but he is now convinced that birth control is the ultimate basis solution for the problems. Being of a methodical and earnest nature, he spends part of his time when work is slack in distributing Mrs. Sanger's pamphlet among those whom he thinks might be benefitted by its wisdom.

He doesn't urge it upon anyone, and he doesn't try to make money through its sale, accepting for a copy some little contribution to help pay expense in his little journeys about the bay district.

WAS ARRESTED ONCE
He was arrested once up in Petaluma, where scientific breeding of poultry has reached a high point but charges under an old state law against advertising means of preventing birth were dropped.

In San Francisco he gave a copy to a policeman and was arrested under a city ordinance prohibiting circulation of "improper matter," but the judge decided the case was not properly presented.

His latest arrest was for selling the pamphlet at Daly City, a little town on San Francisco's border and the charge upon which he was prosecuted was based upon section 311 of the state criminal code, which prohibits indecent exposure, off-color pictures and the singing of lewd songs. An elderly judge held the statue applied and sentenced Rave to jail. The district court of appeals has denied without comment a habeas corpus petition.

This in the mind of Attorney Lewis about settles the matter, but he would like to see what the supreme court would say and is planning an appeal to that body. If the appeal court's decision is upheld, according to Lewis, the distribution of any book upon the subject of birth control will be illegal in this state.

The authorities of most communities in California are inclined to be liberal on this subject and the police of three cities in the northern half of the state have given definite permission for distribution of the pamphlet which ranks so high in Mr. Rave's estimation.

During the recent illness of the king of England, bulletins from the royal physicians were important features of all radio broadcasts.

Recollections Of Appletonians And Others

Capt. Heinemann Recalls Memories

By Edward P. Humphrey

Noticing in The Post-Crescent a few weeks ago that Capt. Fred Heinemann had celebrated his eighty-eighth birthday, I wrote him a note congratulating him upon it, and in reply received an acknowledgment, written in the same copper-plate handwriting I remembered so well from the years long ago when Capt. Heinemann was a frequent contributor to the editorial columns of The Post. By "copper-plate" I do not mean "Spencerian," for the captain's handwriting does not resemble that at all. It is distinctly unlike any other I am familiar with, but "copper-plate" in the qualities of being graceful, unvarying in the formation of the letters and extremely easy to read. I was pleased to see that despite Capt. Heinemann's advanced age his handwriting was as unshaken as in the long ago, and that he expressed himself with the same clearness and facility.

Before January, 1900, when The Post moved into the present Post building, the newspaper was domiciled in the second story over the two buildings next west of the old First National Bank building, which buildings were owned by Herman Bissing, one of them being occupied by the Bissing shoe store. The stairway to the second story, doubtless now, was between the two buildings and upon getting to the top of it one found himself in a small square hall from which doors opened to the editorial and work rooms. The Post's editorial and business office was in the front room over the west store, and the "responding room over the east store, not being needed by The Post, was rented to Capt. Heinemann. The captain therefore was our closest neighbor and very speedily a community of interest sprang up. The Post was a Republican newspaper, quite violently so in those days, and Capt. Heinemann was a Republican but disposed to express his political beliefs less violently, and perhaps therefore more convincingly, than Aleck and Tom Reid. Anyhow, the Reids soon came to value his opinion on political matters, and it resulted that he made frequent contributions to The Post's editorial columns, the matter appearing in the same form as the editorial expressions of the Reids themselves. At first these communications were submitted to the Reids for approval before being sent to the composing room, but later on, assured of the acceptability of his communications, the captain often took them out and hung them on the copybook himself.

These recollections, suggested by Capt. Heinemann's handwriting, would not be completed without reference to the captain's facility as a poet. Unlike Senator Kennedy, the captain never made the slightest claim to harboring or being possessed of what Tom Reid used to call the "divine afflatus." Quite to the contrary, he maintained that "any one could write poetry," provided he governed the writing by certain established and easily understood rules—in other words, that no special genius was needed. Without stopping to discuss the merits of this contention, I am here to state that Capt. Heinemann did write poetry that scanned and rhymed as well as any in the language. Some of his poems appeared in The Post, and if I recall correctly his poetic efforts frequently enriched the programs of divers public occasions.

In his recent letter Capt. Heinemann mentioned that not long before writing it he had spent an afternoon with Capt. John M. Baer, "stirring up the coal and ashes of the days gone by." This recalled to me the first time I heard the name of John M. Baer. It was in the political campaign preceding the election of November, 1887, when Capt. Baer was a candidate for the office of register of deeds of Outagamie county. Up to that time, although he had held some small public offices, he was principally known as a farmer. Though afterwards a Democrat, Capt. Baer at that time was a Republican, and his candidacy was upon the Republican ticket. Naturally The Post was "for" him, and after his nomination Aleck Reid wrote an editorial column in length stating out his qualifications for the office to which he aspired, and in conclusion pleading for the election of "John M. Baer, the horny-handed yeoman of Black Creek!"

In his letter to me Capt. Heinemann, commenting upon his visit with Capt. Baer, remarked that veterans who saw as much service in the civil war as he and Capt. Baer, were coming to be rare birds in Appleton. The last few years have indeed taken heavy toll. Not long ago I noticed in The Post-Crescent that Dennis Meldrum, one of the old veterans, had passed to his reward, and this recalled to my mind that he was one of the men of my acquaintance who always seemed to me to be ageless. I can't remember the time when I didn't know Dennis Meldrum. Perhaps during the last nine years that I have been away from Appleton Dennis came to "show his age," but certainly so long as I knew him, which must have been hard on a half a century, he always looked and seemed the same, and I had come to think of him as a man who always would look the same, and never would be subject to the infirmities of age. Partly I think this was due to his erect, spare figure, his bronzed face, his alert movements and cheery laugh.

Another of my "ageless" men was William Lamure of Buchanan. William Lamure took the Weekly Post and once a year came in to the office to pay his subscription. On many of these occasions I attended to him. He also was erect, tall and thin, with smooth, bronzed face and prominent but unlined features. I still vividly remember my stupefaction when he told me he was born in 1829 and was then seventy-five years of age—I had guessed him at fifty or a trifle more. He had lived on the same farm near Darby since, as I recall it, 1835, when he said there were only one or two neighbors nearer than Green Bay. Think of that for pioneering!

Now that we are on this subject I might say that seeing in The Post-Crescent not long ago that A. W. Priest had celebrated his eightieth birthday, brought to my mind the story, which I do not believe Mr. Priest will object to my relating, of a certain morning I think eighteen years previously, when George Kull, who was then local editor of The Post, came into the office from one of his news-collecting visits to the street, and laughingly told me about meeting "Al" Priest, and that "Al" had told him that day was his sixty-second birthday, "and" said George, "he's worried to death for fear he's going to die of old age right away, when we all know he's as sound as a nut." Obviously, as proven by his recent passing of his eightieth milestone, Mr. Priest's fears were unfounded, and doubtless he is less concerned about the future now than he was then.

Along this line, to be impartial in the telling of sad stories, I might say I had quite a jolt myself about a year ago. I was talking with a certain Hollywood physician, and the matter of age coming up he asked how old I was. "Sixty-two," I told him. "You've got twelve years more!" he commented quite casually. But perhaps I'll fool that physician, just as "Al" Priest fooled himself at the same age! It is strange how one's feeling about death changes with his own approach to life's conclusion. At first, I don't know up to just what age, but let us say to the age of ten or twelve years, a child, while seeing others die and accepting what is told him that all men must die sometime, nevertheless makes mental reservation of himself. He simply does not believe he himself will ever die! He makes no mental effort in denying it. He does not consciously refuse to believe it. He does not even argue about it with himself. He just knows he cannot die! But shortly after this he comes to realize he was wrong, but death is so far away in the future as not to need to be considered. He does not think about it. Even middle life may come and still he does not think about it. Especially is it impossible for him to imagine that a time should ever come when life did not possess engrossing daily interests and duties, so that a man might consider his life work over. I suddenly awakened to another of the realities of life when at the office one morning I read in a Fond du Lac newspaper of an interview with a certain elderly prominent citizen of Fond du Lac in which he stated that he had had a long and eventful life, felt that he had finished his work and was now waiting calmly and willingly for the end. This impressed me as being such a strange state of mind for a man to be in that I wrote an editorial about it for The Post, but before I got to the end of the editorial I knew the man was right, and that his attitude toward the "great experiment" was one which must frequently be characteristic of normal experience as the years draw to a close.

But I have not come to that point yet!

his remaining Diamond and so was able to ruff South's Diamond Queen with Dummy's remaining trump. Consequently Declarer made a Small Slam and was congratulated by his partner for his brilliant play.

Was the Declarer brilliant or dumb?

THE CORRECT PLAY
After the first trick, Declarer could count exactly three Clubs in the adverse hands. He did not know how the Clubs were divided, but he did know that Dummy had two entries in trumps and that by letting the Closed Hand ruff two Clubs, that suit must be established in Dummy even if one adversary held all the remaining adverse Clubs. With that suit established, four discards could be obtained by Closed Hand and a Grand Slam made.

Consequently Dummy should have led a small Club to "ruff" and Closed Hand should have ruffed with any Heart except the Six and then put Dummy in with a trump. To trick 1, Dummy should have led a second small Club and again Closed Hand should have ruffed with a high trump and led another high trump, followed by another trump which Dummy's Jack would win, taking out East's last trump and leaving Dummy in the lead. As Dummy's four Clubs then would be established, Closed Hand would obtain four discards and Declarer would make a Grand Slam.

FLOOD DANGER ALONG MISSISSIPPI DROPS

New Orleans—The possibility of disastrous floods along the Mississippi is growing dimmer. The present outlook is for 14.5 feet at New Orleans. It takes a stage of 17 feet to cause apprehension and 21 feet was withheld in 1927 without a break in the levee. There is no apprehension in the Mississippi valley.

HAREFOOT ORCHESTRA IS REHEARSING DAILY

The thirteen members of the "Hi-Jack" orchestra are holding daily rehearsals under the guiding baton of Director Al Butler. "Hi-Jack" a musical comedy of Chicago's badlands is the thirty-first annual production of the University of Wisconsin Harefoot club which will appear on April 19 for matinee and evening performances at the New Brin theatre at Menasha.

Jack Mason, a senior in the university school and orchestra pianist, will be second in command to Al Butler. A cello, bass viol and three violins compose the string ensemble. They are played by Joseph Riddle, Glenn Wheeler, Anthony Trapani, Tullius Brady and Harold Seelstad, respectively. The seven instruments, including Saxophone, Clarinet, two trumpets, trombone and three saxophones, are handled by William Mousen, Frank Powers, Devore Hatcher, Harold Schneider, John Seave, Joseph Blatney and Donald Matthews.

One of the heaviest rainfalls ever recorded in the United States was at Taylor, Texas, on September 9-10, 1921. More than 25 inches of rain fell on those two days.

COUNTY COMMITTEES OPEN BIDS THURSDAY

Members of three county groups, the building and grounds committee, sanatorium committee and sanatorium trustees, will meet at 2 o'clock Thursday afternoon at the courthouse to open bids on plumbing, heating and wiring contracts for the addition to be built at Riverview sanatorium this spring. If the bids are satisfactory the contract for the work may be let at that time. Bids are to be received by John E. Hantschel, county clerk, up to that time.

SEEK BIDS ON GRADE SEPARATION ON ROAD

Bids are to be sought on a grade separation in the village of Black Creek at the crossing of the Soo Line railroad and State Trunk Highway 51 by the division state highway engineer's office at Green Bay. The bids are being accepted now and are to be opened April 12 when the contract will be let if the prices are satisfactory. This job, calling for laying 500 feet of 20-foot concrete, is one of six on which the division office is preparing to seek bids. The division will have charge of 16 improvement projects.

Trained Farmers Till Wisconsin Soil

There is a well worn path, running from the farm homes of Wisconsin to the classrooms and laboratories of the short courses in agriculture at the state university.

More than 7,500 young men, from every county in Wisconsin, have returned to improve agriculture in their home community. It is no wonder that agricultural Wisconsin is known from coast to coast. Any state with such a heritage of trained men on the land would, indeed, be fortunate.

Each winter when the farm work is slack, boys from all over the state go to Madison for the 15 weeks session. It offers an unequalled study opportunity contributing mightily to the building of Wisconsin "fertile and fair".

Wisconsin's farms, run scientifically by this host of trained men, have built up a prosperous rural citizenry. The farm income is over $573,000,000 annually.

Sixty-nine per cent of these farm business men read daily newspapers.

You can successfully reach them through the Wisconsin Daily Newspaper League. Ask this newspaper or write H. L. Davis about the League's unique advertising plan.

Book Of Knowledge

Story of the Days

Tuesday is named after Tyr, Norse god of war. The world was troubled by a terrible wolf-spirit called Fenris. To capture Fenris, the spirits of the mountains made a chain of the hardest things in the world to find, "the footsteps of a cat, the roots of stones, the breath of fishes, the spittle of birds."

By NEA, Through Special Permission of the Publishers of The Book of Knowledge, Copyright, 1923-26

But Fenris would not allow even this soft-looking chain to be placed around his neck, except on one condition.

That condition was that a god must be sent to put his hand in Fenris' mouth. Tyr was the only god to volunteer.

Tyr put his hand into the mouth of Fenris and the wolf-spirit was bound with the chain. Then, enraged at being captured, Fenris bit off the hand of the god. That is why the Norse god of war is always represented as having one hand, and that is how Tuesday gets its name. (To Be Continued)

ROGERS SEDAN IS WRECKED ON ROAD NEAR MARSHFIELD

Mrs. Rogers and Daughter in Hospital as Result of Highway Accident

New London—Several members of the Charles Rogers family, formerly of this city but now of Minneapolis, suffered severe cuts and bruises, and the others were considerably shaken up in an accident on a highway near Marshfield about 1 o'clock Monday afternoon, according to a telephone message Monday from Mr. Rogers.

Katherine, 13, a daughter, suffered a severely cut scalp, and Mrs. Rogers received severe bruises about the body, arms, legs and head. These two are at a Marshfield hospital where they are expected to remain about a week. Mr. Rogers suffered a fractured nose and broken thumb, while two other daughters, Myrtle and Betty, suffered minor bruises. With their father, the two girls left Monday evening for their home at Minneapolis.

The new Rogers sedan was completely wrecked, according to Mr. Rogers' telephone message, which, however, did not give further details regarding the accident.

Mrs. P. J. Laux and Mrs. Frank Hofer, sisters of Mrs. Rogers, expect to go to the Marshfield hospital on Thursday to visit the two injured there.

ROADS KEEP SPEAKER FROM LUNCHEON MEET

Special to Post-Crescent

New London—Assemblyman D. F. Burnham of Waupaca, who was scheduled to address a joint luncheon meeting of the Lions and Rotarians Monday noon, was unable to be present because of the impassable condition of the highways, as the result of the heavy weekend storm.

W. H. Hatton addressed the two clubs, discussing government institutions and stressing the supreme court, particularly with reference to its check on vicious laws.

New London—Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Kellogg celebrated their fiftieth wedding anniversary with a dinner Saturday evening at their home on Shavano-st. They were married at Hancock, Wis., and lived in Portage until 1924, when they moved to this city. Immediate members of the family were present at the dinner.

JOSEPH MOSER FIRST FARMER TO SEED OATS

Special to Post-Crescent

New London—Joseph Moser of the town of Liberty, is reported to be the first farmer in that region to have seeded his oats this year. Every spring there is considerable friendly rivalry among farmers in Liberty as to who will be the first to plant part of his land. Mr. Moser put in his seeding on Saturday, thus getting a start of several days or more as the result of the latest storm. Others will be obliged to wait until the snow is melted and the ground is dry enough for seeding purposes.

ANNUAL EGG HUNT IS POSTPONED BY WEATHER

Clintonville—The annual Easter egg hunt sponsored by the Lions club of this city which was scheduled for Easter Sunday has been postponed until a future date when the weather permits. Each year the Lions club of this city entertains the children by hiding thousands of eggs, among which are many prize eggs. Central Park can not be used as in former years for the Easter egg hunt because of the water. T. A. Patterson is at the head of the committee in charge of the hunt this year and is assisted by Lions Alf Piehl and Delmar Peterson.

English "Teapot Dome" Threatens Oil Industry

London—(P)—A tempest in the British teapot threatens to bubble over and soil mining lane's best commercial tablecloth.

The tea trade is split wide open on a question of major business policy and British housewives fear that the squabble is going to be reflected by increased tea prices.

Mining lane, tea storehouse for all the world, deals also in sugar, coffee, cocoa, rice, tapioca, spices, dried fruit, rubber, hemp, ivory and drugs, but tea takes the precedence over all in this famous market.

The dispute is a serious matter for anything that affects the price or distribution of tea in the British Isles is at once a national issue. The English are a nation of tea drinkers; indeed, in some homes the pot of tea is brewed regularly every hour or so throughout the day.

The whole matter hinges on whether it shall be required by law that all tea sold in the British Isles be labeled "Empire grown" or "foreign," as the case may be.

The millions of pounds spent in the "buy British goods" campaign has resulted in a preference of Empire grown products over foreign grown commodities and therefore any tea labeled "foreign" would be under an obvious disadvantage in the British market.

When it is considered that by far the larger portion of the British tea trade deals in tea that is blended by old, all-British firms from empire grown and foreign teas the rub becomes apparent. Such tea would have to be labeled "Empire and foreign grown" and this, the blenders assert, would give a minority of the British tea trade dealing in strictly empire grown teas a great commercial advantage.

The tea trade dispute has drawn attention to the enormous growth of the business during the last half century or so. In 1867 the records show that the consumption of tea in Great Britain was just below 111,500,000 pounds from China and the balance from India. Now, some sixty-one years later, the annual consumption is 416,000,000 pounds. Of this amount India and Ceylon contributes annually 342,000,000 pounds of empire grown tea, while the Dutch East Indies sends in 61,000,000 pounds of foreign grown and China and other foreign producers manage to dispose of 13,000,000 pounds in the British market.

It would seem from these official figures, that the British tea grower has little to fear from foreign competition, but it is a fact that British imports of Java and Sumatra teas are creeping up, and it is these teas that the British growers wish to be labeled "foreign." Expert observers say that no menace to British industry is seen in the importation of China teas.

In 1867 the records show that the consumption of tea in Great Britain was just below 111,500,000 pounds from China and the balance from India. Now, some sixty-one years later, the annual consumption is 416,000,000 pounds. Of this amount India and Ceylon contributes annually 342,000,000 pounds of empire grown tea, while the Dutch East Indies sends in 61,000,000 pounds of foreign grown and China and other foreign producers manage to dispose of 13,000,000 pounds in the British market.

It would seem from these official figures, that the British tea grower has little to fear from foreign competition, but it is a fact that British imports of Java and Sumatra teas are creeping up, and it is these teas that the British growers wish to be labeled "foreign." Expert observers say that no menace to British industry is seen in the importation of China teas.

PICK WINNERS OF SPEECH TESTS AT WEYAUWEGA SCHOOL

Will Represent Village at League Contest in Manawa on April 8

Special to Post-Crescent

Weyauwega—"Little Dub," the declamation given by Margaret Olson, at the local high school declamation contest on Friday afternoon won first place. Virginia Schillebe won second place with "Rosa Balm." Third place was given to Edith Schmidt who gave "The Abandoned Elopement" and fourth place was awarded Ruth Peterson with her selection, "For the Love of Mary Ellen."

The oratorical contest was also held that afternoon. Clarence Zick winning first award with "National Catastrophe." Carl Fisher giving "Saviors of Men" was second; Glenn Shreve, "Permanent Court of International Justice" won third and Arnold Stroehlin fourth place with "The Pole of Industry."

Lucille Sherburne won first place in extemporaneous reading in the contest; Betty Cohen second, and Jessie Holcomb, third place.

Those winning first place in the three contests will go to Manawa to enter the league contests on Monday, April 8.

Strong east winds blowing over Lake Poygan caused the ice to break into large cakes, and when the water was high, the cakes piled up on Highway H, one mile out of Tustin, where the road is impassable for over half a mile. The ice took with it rubbish, logs and uprooted trees and deposited them in the middle of the highway, making a detour necessary.

The ice went out of the mill pond early this year. It is usually the second week in April before the lake is free of ice, while this year it was on March 28.

Glady's Shreve and Edna Ragel who attend Oshkosh Business college, are home for a visit.

Katherine Hathaway who teaches school in Wausau, is visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Bert Hathaway.

Mrs. M. M. Hill and grand-daughter, Marion Anthony, of Milwaukee are visiting friends in this vicinity.

EXPERTS SEEK WAY TO FIX AIRCRAFT RADIO CHANNELS

89 Channels to Be Allocated for Commercial Communication

Washington—(P)—Convinced that radio has no function more important than that of promoting the safety and development of aviation, the federal radio commission and government experts are working out a method of allocating 89 channels for commercial aircraft communication.

The commission has set aside channels for aviation as follows: Eighteen transoceanic high frequency communication channels, 63 continental high frequency communication channels, five medium frequency communication channels, two medium frequency calling channels, one high frequency calling channel.

The department of commerce operates the direction finding radio beacons and sends weather broadcasts and safety messages to aid pilots on the civil airways. Government officials and operators of the air transport lines are agreed that the department should continue this work. The big problem of the commission is the adoption of a definite policy in the granting of licenses for communication stations on these airways.

Aeronautical companies, communication companies and private organizations allied with the aviation industry have applied for aircraft channels. Many of these applications have been for radio stations at the same landing field and many differ widely in the frequency requested.

Capt. S. C. Hooper, director of naval communications, advises that there be only one radio station at an airport, and that there be no rival stations in the same general vicinity. He advocates that one general utility company own and operate the stations.

Lester D. Seymour, of the Aeronautical Chamber of Commerce, recommends that the channels for continental use be allocated to the air transport companies for operation on a cooperative basis, the service to be common to all aircraft and the expense to be shared by the air lines.

"We believe that the demands of safety and the preservation of human life require that any aid which may be afforded by the use of the radio should be freely given," he said. "It should not be prostituted for the financial gain of any company or organization which might be put together and to which in time we could transfer, second hand the trust and responsibility which is ours."

PUBLIC SERVANT New Bedford, Mass.—At the conclusion of his present term, Charles S. Ashley will have served as mayor of this city for 26 years. A four-year break in his career was served as postmaster. He is 70.

A GREAT TOWN! Chicago—The city's health department has hoped it out just how people die in this town. The homicide rate, it is found, outranks influenza. The killing rate is 16.1 per 100,000 population, meaning that one out of every 79 persons dying last year met his death by violence.

Cars Now Park Where Sentries Once Tread

Fort Wilkins, Mich.—(P)—The protected borders of the United States and Canada, an oft-cited example that two peoples can live in peace, revives the story of Fort Wilkins, the last army post on the northern boundary line.

Not since its garrison marched away shortly after the civil war have its confines echoed to martial tread. It now is a state park, and tourists camp beneath its trees where sentries alert for the war cry of Indian braves once walked their posts.

Just a cannon-shot away, across the waters of Lake Superior is the imaginary line separating Canada from the United States.

Never once in the life of the old fort was a gun fired from its confines in hostility. Fort Wilkins was established in 1844, temporarily abandoned in 1846, re-occupied in 1869 and finally deserted in 1870.

The post was built at the end of Michigan's thumb, the Keweenaw peninsula, as a protection to early copper miners and settlers against Indian aggression. There, too, lurked in the minds of officials at that time a possibility that the United States some day might need to defend its northern frontier.

The first garrisoned troops, who built the post, hewed the logs from virgin timber. Later the buildings were clapboarded, and when the state took over the post the fort was well preserved.

Protecting the enclosure on the north and east was a stockade of posts, fastened with hand-made wooden pegs. Lake Poygan House provided protection on the south side, and there was a rapidly flowing stream on the west.

The post, although somewhat modernized by the summer's flow of motorists, remains a page out of the past in the industrialized present of Michigan's copper country.

VERSATILE CLOCK London—The clock made for Pope Sixtus V, now in the medieval room of the British Museum, is three stories high. It tells on its dials the fast days, signs of the Zodiac, the motions of the sun and moon on their courses. The rods of the days and weeks are represented. The four ages of man strike the quarters on a bell.

How Weak Nervous Women Grow Stronger

Feel Better, Look Younger and Have Steadier Nerves

If you only knew—you rundown, anemic women—who are dragging yourself around on your "nerves"—what a wonderful increase in strength and health Tanlac will give you, you wouldn't hesitate a moment about getting a big bottle of this splendid medicine.

Mrs. C. A. Warner, of 502 First St. South, Aberdeen, S. D., says: "I suffered so from indigestion, kidney trouble and complete breakdown that I was in misery. Tanlac brought wonderful relief and soon had me eating everything. That tired, run-down feeling was over."

Tanlac is as free from harmful drugs as the water you drink—only Nature's own medicinal tonic herbs. Druggists know this and for the past 10 years have recommended it to men and women who need a quick "pick up" that will put them on their feet and give them a new interest in life.

So confident are the makers of Tanlac that if you are not helped by it, you get your money back on request.

CONGRESS AGAIN OBJECTS TO BLAST BY RADIO EDITOR

Trouble With Radio Is Nation's Legislature, Caldwell Charges

BY ROBERT MACK Copyright 1929 by the Consolidated Press Association

Washington—Bombasting congress, the favorite sport of C. H. Caldwell, editor of the "Radio Editor," is being resumed with aided zest by that engineer-editor since his return to private life, freed of the restraints of public office.

The trouble with radio is congress, Mr. Caldwell avers editorially in a sizzling denunciation of the nation's legislature. Mr. Caldwell left the commission, of which he was an original member, on Feb. 23, ending two years of service. He resumed his editorial direction of a leading radio publication and, in no uncertain terms, is saying "Adieu" to his views.

The "political machinations" of congress, and the "bank discommodities" against radio principles and radio engineering are "adieu" by the former commissioner to support his expressed animosity against a commission form of radio regulation. Here's the way he expresses it:

"After two years' experience, it is thoroughly proved that any commission plan inherently is not adapted for handling administration work in a complex situation like that of radio."

"But when congress, through incompetent radio leaders, further weakens an already unsound structure, stifles their dependent action of the commission, hobbles its membership in personnel and funds, discredits against engineers and expert radio advisers, and generally seeks to reduce the board's functioning to lowest political levels with radio considerations ignored—it is time the whole radio commission idea is booted badly out of the window and radio authority placed once more in the executive branch of the government where it functioned so well under the secretary of commerce (Herbert Hoover) until 1926."

The amendment to the Watson-White bill adopted at the close of the last session of congress, cutting the terms of all the radio commissioners to one year, instead of the terms of two to six years for which they were appointed, under the original radio act of 1927, is characterized by Mr. Caldwell as "another triumph of political machination, at the expense of radio efficiency."

"A public officer safeguarded by a four or six term can be expected to exercise his judgment and conviction in broad public interest. But as matters now stand, any radio commissioner who wants his job next year faces daily in the face of the population, of his political future, in serving the public interest, trends over so lightly on the toes of this or that politician's 'favorite' broadcasting station or radio interest."

There are sections in the east where banks have loaned so freely to customers on security basis, that they can not take care of commercial demands. While it is true, this is slow in showing a positive cumulative and if not corrected will become serious within the next six days.

LEGION PLANS BIG CELEBRATION WHEN CHIEF VISITS CITY

Vote to Hold July 4 Celebration but Fail to Appoint Committees

One of the largest gatherings of legionnaires ever held in Appleton is being planned by members of Oney Johnston post when Commander Paul V. McNutt of the national department visits the city, June 24. Plans for the national officers visit were discussed Monday evening when the veterans held their regular monthly meeting and a committee composed of Marshall C. Graff, chairman, James H. Balliet and Eric L. Madisen was appointed to make arrangements for the meeting.

Legion members from posts in northeastern Wisconsin, with their musical organizations will be asked to attend and a large parade will be held early in the evening. Commander McNutt will be in Milwaukee at noon the same day and will spend only a few hours here in the evening. The public meeting at which the veterans' chief will speak will be in the chapel.

Members of Oney Johnston post boy scout troop also will feature in the program. Merit badge winners will be awarded by the court of honor of valley council that evening. The ceremony taking place as part of the evening's program.

The veterans also voted to put on a July 4 celebration but aside from passing the resolution failed to appoint any committees.

Spanish-American war veterans appeared before the executive committee of the legion which met previous to the general meeting of veterans and asked support of a bill now before congress re-establishing the pension fund for the veterans of 1898.

Oney Johnston post now has 589 members according to reports submitted at the meeting, and needs 51 more men to go over the top. Marshall C. Graff, district commander, addressed the group and asked they obtain the necessary number of vets this week so that the post and county might go over the top. If the Appleton post goes over, the county automatically will go over the top the district commander stated.

The speaker on the evening's entertainment program was Dr. Chester M. Sanford, vocational guidance expert. He talked on experiences in personnel work for the government during the war.

DR. SANFORD TALKS TO SCOUT LEADERS

Will Discuss Merit Badge Program and Vocational Guidance

Dr. Chester M. Sanford, vocational guidance expert, visiting in Appleton, will be one of the speakers at the opening meeting of the valley council boys' scout leaders course which will begin Wednesday evening, according to M. G. Clark, valley council executive.

Dr. Sanford will speak on guidance through the merit badge program practiced by the scout organization. He endorses the merit badge program as one of the best in the country for enabling boys to find the thing in which they are most interested. The meeting is being held in the third floor club rooms of armory.

SHERIFF GIESE AND WIFE ARE HOSTS TO GIRLS

It is an ill wind or storm that doesn't blow somebody good, say the girls who work at the county courthouse offices, as they contemplate the fine repast which the blizzard Sunday brought them through Sheriff and Mrs. Fred W. Giese.

Most of the girls had considerable trouble reaching the courthouse Monday morning as a result of the deep snowdrifts. As the clock crept slowly toward noon there began to be many speculations as to just how they would get dinner. Most of the girls scoffed at the idea of walking home.

Then Sheriff and Mrs. Giese came to the rescue. They invited the girls to be their guests at dinner at the county jail and the invitation was most eagerly accepted.

The girls Tuesday were loud in their praise of Sheriff Giese and his wife, who is an excellent cook.

"As I think of that lean roast pork, mashed potatoes and savory gravy, cabbage salad, pickles, cranberry sauce, pickles, walnut cake and tea I hope for a storm at least once a week," said one of the guests.

DAHLIA GROWERS GET TOGETHER ON THURSDAY

ATHENIANS MEET TO DISPOSE OF PROPERTY

A meeting of former members and attendees of the Athena society of Lawrence college, now disorganized, as been called for 2:30 Wednesday afternoon in Dr. J. B. McHarg's history lecture room. The purpose of the meeting is the disposition of records and other property of the society.

DAN USES HAMMER TO MAKE JUNK OF 6 SLOT MACHINES

As the crashing reverberation of metal striking metal sounded through the courthouse Tuesday morning from the direction of the county jail many people were led to believe that some hardened prisoners were attempting a jail break. Or at least a bloody and desperate battle was being waged.

Investigation, however, showed that the noise was caused by Dan Kelly, turnkey who, was savagely attacking six slot machines confiscated in a series of three raids by sheriff's deputies last Saturday night. The value of the machines destroyed was approximately $1,000.

Officer Kelly, after an hour of pounding and hammering, had reduced the machines to a pile of junk which will be sold. Probably the machines will bring as much as $2 a junk.

BLIZZARD AFFECTS ELECTION RESULTS

Storm Is Regarded as Favorable to Wets in Referendum Battle

Milwaukee—(AP)—An April blizzard had become a factor in Tuesday's vote on the repeal of the Severe state prohibition enforcement act.

Many communities were faced with bad roads and transportation troubles following the Sunday storm. The wets regarded this as favorable to their cause, pointing out that the rural communities generally vote dry.

Even should the vote Tuesday favor repeal of the act, it would not mean repeal of the state's dry laws inasmuch as the vote is merely an expression of state sentiment. It was regarded, however, that the voters' decision would serve as a mandate with which the legislature would comply.

Should the referendum carry, either for repeal or modification, legislation now pending would have to be passed by the legislature and signed by the governor before repeal would become effective.

Tuesday's referendum was in two parts. One for absolute repeal and the other for modification. Each voter was permitted to cast a ballot on one or both questions.

Another question was a constitutional amendment to permit sheriffs to serve two consecutive terms.

DEATHS

ISAAC GEORGE MILLER
Isaac George Miller, 87, died at 2:40 Tuesday morning at his home on Churchill-st. at Waupaca. He was born in New York on April 21, 1842, and was married on Nov. 18, 1885, to Mrs. Louisa A. Collar. Survivors are the widow and a son, Lee, of Dodgeville. Another son, Guy, was killed about four years ago by a train at Weyauwega. Funeral services will be conducted at 2 o'clock Thursday afternoon at the home of the Rev. F. C. Richardson of the Methodist church at Waupaca. Burial will be made at Oak Grove cemetery at Weyauwega.

MRS. LUCY M. KIMBALL
Mrs. Lucy M. Kimball, 76, widow of the late George S. Kimball died Monday after a lingering illness at her home in Waupaca. She was born in Ohio and came to Appleton in 1864, where she lived until 30 years ago. The survivors are Sarah Kimball of Rose Lawn and W. N. Kimball of this city. Funeral services will be held at 1 o'clock Thursday afternoon at the residence at Rose Lawn and burial will be in the Riverside cemetery in this city.

CHARLES SAUTER
Charles Sauter, 403 S. State-st., aged 70, died suddenly Monday morning at his home. He is survived by five sons, George, Kimberly, Arthur, Menasha; and Nat, Alex and Henry of Appleton; one daughter, Mrs. Edward Zenske, Janesville; one brother, Joseph of Menasha; one sister, Mrs. Matt Schmidt, Appleton; eight grandchildren. He was a member of Holy Nat. society of St. Joseph church and St. Joseph society and the Catholic Knights of Wisconsin. The body was taken from the Schommer funeral home to the late residence Tuesday afternoon from where the funeral will be held at 8:30 Thursday morning and at 9 o'clock at St. Joseph church.

DRESELY FUNERAL
Funeral services for John Dreseley, 1002 N. Appleton-st., were held from the residence at 9:30 Tuesday morning and from St. Joseph church at 10 o'clock. Bearers were Fred Stoffel, Joseph Schomisch, Albert Diener, Gustave Keller, Sr., Joseph Mayer and John Sigi. Delegates from St. Joseph society of St. Joseph church and the Catholic Knights of Wisconsin attended the funeral. The body was placed in the receiving vault at Riverside cemetery.

C. OF C. COMMITTEE POSTPONES MEETING

The meeting of the nominating of the chamber of commerce scheduled for Monday afternoon was postponed, according to Kenneth Corbett, secretary of the chamber. The meeting probably will be held later this week. Members of the committee are to select the names of the ten candidates for election as directors of the chamber, five of whom will be elected by members of the organization before April 18.

MARRIAGE LICENSES

Four marriage licenses were issued Monday by John E. Hantschel, county clerk. They were given to the following couples: Stephen McCarthy, Appleton, and Alice Kohl, route 1, Appleton; Alfred J. Naas, Milwaukee, and Esther Kuse, Appleton; Emil Borchardt, Appleton, and Cecilia Gerrits, Little Chute; Elmer F. Klug, route 1, New London, and Margaret Moeller, Hilbert.

Large Family Sets Health Record

The family of Will A. Hauck of DeSmet, S. D. claims a record for health. Mr. and Mrs. Hauck, shown here with their family, are parents of 17 children, nine boys and eight girls, and death never has laid a hand on the family circle. All the children are well and industrious and the parents are in excellent health, too.

EVERYONE ASKS C. C. ABOUT ROADS AND IT HAS NO INFORMATION

Appleton chamber of commerce employees put in one of the busiest days of the year Monday answering telephone calls as to conditions of roads, according to Kenneth Corbett, secretary of the chamber. And to make matters worse the chamber had no information to give out other than that roads were blocked. Tuesday's reports were that highway 41 was open but no information was available on other routes.

ICE FIELD COMES BACK AND BLOCKS HIGHWAY

Menominee, Mich.—(AP)—A huge ice field eight feet in depth blocked traffic Monday near Arthur Bay, 35 miles north of here, on highway 38, the Green Bay shore road. The ice was blasted away to open the road. The ice, which had been broken up on Green Bay last week and was being carried out of the bay by southerly winds, was brought back to this shore by the blizzard out of the northeast, which developed into the worst storm in years. The ice was forced across the road and into a field beyond.

KILL WOLF AFTER HUNT LASTING FOUR MONTHS

Phoenix, Ariz.—(AP)—Four months pursuit of a 10-year-old wolf whose depredations were international in scope has been rewarded by his death.

The predatory creature included in his range south eastern Arizona, New Mexico and Mexico. He was credited with having slain thousands of dollars worth of stock.

Last September, M. E. Musgrave, director of the government's fight against destructive animals dispatched Deputy Al Fields into the district with instructions to stay there until the wolf was killed. Every path the animal was known to have used was blocked with traps and Fields established a permanent camp in the territory. After a wait of four months the hunt was terminated when the wolf returned to Arizona and was trapped.

That the animal was a good judge of beef was disclosed by the records which indicated 70 percent of his kills were fat, yearling heifers cut out from the herd and hamstring.

CHARGE GIRL WOULDN'T ATTEND SCHOOL HERE

An Appleton girl, 15 years old, was arrested Tuesday morning by Sheriff Fred W. Giese on complaint of her father that she refused to attend school. She is to be taken into juvenile court at 2 o'clock Wednesday afternoon before Judge Fred V. Heinemann.

BODY IRON GOVERNS BREATHING OF FISH

Quantity of Mineral in Bodies Controls Activities of Aquatic Life

Durham, S. C.—(AP)—The amount of iron in the body apparently has a great deal to do with breathing. At least as far as fish are concerned.

Experimenting with scups, puffers and loach fish at the Woods Hole Mass., station of the bureau of fisheries, Dr. F. G. Hall of Duke University has found a distinct relationship between the quantity of iron in their bodies and the minimum amounts of oxygen they require.

These three species were selected as representing at one extreme, a very active fish, the scup, and at the other a very sluggish variety, the loach fish, the puffer being an intermediate form. The activity of a fish, Dr. Hall explains, is greater or less according to the amount of iron in its body, and his findings indicate that the same factor governs its ability to utilize oxygen in water.

The scup, he found, is not affected by the amount of oxygen in the water until the oxygen falls below 30 per cent of normal, but it dies quickly if the amount is reduced below that point. The loach fish, on the other hand, reduces its rate of respiration steadily as the amount of oxygen declines from 100 per cent to 6, and it can live two days without any oxygen at all.

Attempting a similar experiment with mackerel, he discovered that it cannot breathe at all, even in water containing the greatest possible amount of oxygen, unless it is moving forward. That, he suggests, probably has some bearing on the migration habits of this fish.

OLD BERLIN CHURCH IS BEING RENOVATED

Berlin—(AP)—In the course of renovating the "Klosterkirche," the oldest church of Berlin, the workmen under their ecclesiastical expert, Dr. Steinberger discovered a subterranean tomb filled with 19 skeletons of women that were identified as remains of the 18th century. The skeletons were exhumed and buried elsewhere.

Within the last two centuries the "Klosterkirche," built during the latter part of the 13th century, has repeatedly proved a treasure trove for historical relics. Only last year a 200 year old sepulchre was unearthed, though neither in that nor in the present burial place were any objects of art value found.

ME AND MINE

JAPS GROW TALLER IN U. S. THAN EAST

Research Proves Racial Types May Be Controlled by Environment

Norman, Okla.—(AP)—Japanese born in the United States grow taller, have larger heads and are more precocious than the natives of the island empire. Dr. Leslie Spier of the department of anthropology at the University of Oklahoma concludes after research in the state of Washington and in Japan.

His findings lead him to believe that racial types may be controlled by environment. However, he observed that Japanese children born in this country do not acquire the physical characteristics of Americans, but really have accentuated Japanese characteristics.

"The form of their faces and heads is strikingly different from those born in Japan," Dr. Spier says. "The faces are broader among the American born and the heads are larger. The proportions of the head also differ, the skull being wider in the American born. The American born Japanese children also show more precocious, the more rapid physiological development being indicated by the early age at which they acquire adult teeth."

The scientist says the reasons for the changes on account of different environments are obscure.

"When we say they are due to a change in environment, we do not mean necessarily a change in climate but he explains, 'The principle environmental factors are food and water supply. What seems to happen is that the physiological basis of growth is disturbed by the new environment conditions. A mountain plant, for example, will develop entirely new forms if it is brought down to the lowlands.'

Markets

OIL SHARES LEAD STOCKS IN RISE

Mixed Price Movement Characterizes Early Hours of Trading

New York—(AP)—Heavy buying of the oil shares featured the market's price movement at the opening of Tuesday's stock market. One block of 10,000 shares of Standard Oil of New Jersey changed hands at 87 1/2 up 1/2, and fractional gains were recorded by Standard Oil of California and American Oil. National Cash and Copper advanced 1/2 point on the announcement that the dividend had been doubled. National Cash and Copper advanced 1/2 point on the announcement that the dividend had been doubled.

Early gains of a point or more were recorded by about a dozen oil issues including Standard Oil of California, Pan American Oil, Sinclair, Texas Co. and American Oil. National Cash and Copper advanced 1/2 point on the announcement that the dividend had been doubled.

American Express and American Railways Express each ran up about 5 points. Canadian steel, 2 points, and American Zinc, 4 and 1/2 points, and American Smelting and American Roebuck fell back a point or so.

In the initial outbreak of selling, General Motors and Chrysler Withington fell 2 points, Radio 1 1/2, and Nash, International Nickel, Chrysler, Kolster, Davison Chemical and Coty declined a point or so, but these losses were cut down in the recovery which set in soon after the opening.

Foreign exchanges opened steady, with sterling cables unchanged at 24.55 1/2.

The market closed strong. Total sales approximated 3,700,000 shares.

CAPTAIN FRIED SCORNS LANDING STAGES ON SEAS

Claims Trans-oceanic
Flights Will Embody Few
Dangers in Future

New York —(AP)—A hero of the seas has pinned his faith to trans-oceanic flying.

Capt. George Fried, skipper of the America and rescuer of the Florida and the Antioch shipwreck victims, believes the next few years will see established services for passenger and light freight.

Captain Fried calls it "overseas flying" and believes that with the rapid development of aircraft and the radio a trip across the Atlantic will embody few more dangers than a similar trip by steamer.

"The multiple-motored airplane appears to be the practicable method. Dirigibles seem more difficult to handle and more easily influenced by the elements. I think four motors would be the best equipment, with the ship able to carry on with two motors out of commission," he says.

Landing stages are impracticable and unnecessary, believes the man who has weathered some of the worst storms of the North Atlantic. "An ideal route would be along the steamship lanes to the Azores," he says. "A plane hopping off from New York could make the long jump to the Azores, re-fuel there and carry on to Paris without any great difficulty. I scarcely believe a landing stage would stand up in mid-ocean, and I doubt that a pilot could pick up so tiny a spot in the ocean's expanse."

Captain Fried puts his trust in radio beacons as aids to navigation for steamship and airplane. With beacons established at strategic points he says, it would be possible for a pilot to keep his course even in the thickest fog.

"A beacon on the Azores," he says, "would be sufficient guide for a pilot. He need only set his nose in the direction from which the beacon sounds loudest. Eventually and barring mechanical troubles he would pick up the islands. Beacons from other points could be used to fix his positions and enable him to calculate his speed at all times."

"Even when it is perfected I do not look for overseas flying to interfere seriously with shipping. Air lines will provide an express service—say 48 hours from New York to Paris—but there must always be shipping to care for heavy freight and passengers in no particular hurry."

"Wireless and telegraph facilities provide for rapid transportation of messages, but mail trains still must be run. So the sea captain need not start looking for another job just yet."

These developments are not for the immediate future, Captain Fried believes. Aircraft design is not sufficiently far along to warrant an attempt at regular service yet. But the man who has followed the sea since early boyhood expects to live to see great planes winging from east to west and back again on regular schedule.

"There will be accidents," he concluded. "There are accidents to shipping. But I look for comparative safety of operation and speed of service."

USE OF CITY WATER ON INCREASE--HALL

Graphical Chart Indicates
General Growth of City
Department

A graphical chart indicating the general trend of activities of the water commission, especially at the city pumping station and filtration plant, has been designed by A. J. Hall, superintendent of the plant.

The chart shows the general increase of pumpage, consumption of water, number of hydrants, length of water mains, annual pumpage, and average monthly pumpage.

It covers a period from 1921 to February, 1929. The mean monthly pumpage has increased from 41,921,000 gallons in 1921 to over 61,000,000 in 1929. It also shows that the length of water mains in the city has increased from 49 miles in 1921 to 73 miles in 1929.

In 1921 there were 3,700 consumers of city water while at the present time that number has increased to 5,800. In 1921 there were 350 hydrants, while now there are 590, the chart indicates.
